1000 KILLED INEAST INDIES BY VOLCANO, REPORT SAYS

Dutch Island of Paloweh Virtually Destroyed—Fragments From Roka-tinda Crater Injure 600.

Entire Seaboard Submerged
—Six Villages Burned During Two-Day Disturbance, Aug. 4 and 5.

By the Associated Press.
BATAVIA, Java, Aug. 9.—According to reports transmitted by a resident of Timor, virtually the entire island of Paloweh, in the Dutch East Indies, was destroyed by the eruption of the Rokatinda volcano, Aug. 4 and 5. Six villages were burned.

The death toll was thought to be approximately 1000. Six hundred persons were injured when hit by fragments thrown out of the crater.

Further casualties were caused by the submergence of the whole seaboard of the island through an earthquake and tidal wave accompanying the eruption.

The rest of the islanders, numbering 5000, were said to be safe and ample provisions available. It was thought that nine native boats on the way from Celebes Island to Paloweh foundered with their crews.

The Dutch resident of Timor is proceeding to the scene of the disaster.

Paloweh Island, also known as Raja Rajah Island, lies about five miles off the North coast of Flores Island, one of the larger of the Malay Archipelago. It is about four miles in diameter and rises to a peak 4552 feet high which is covered with trees to its summit.

Water Recalls Eruptions 45 Years Ago in Sunda Straits.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The destruction of the island of Paloweh recalls a similar, but probably more extensive, disaster in the East Indies about 45 years ago when terrific volcanic explosions all but destroyed the island of Krakatau in the Sunda Straits between Sumatra and Java.

That island, in 1883, was the scene of a series of volcanic disasters from May to August which were the most terrific ever recorded.

Available records of that disaster are that a cubic mile of rock was hurled into the air with attendant explosions which were heard 150 miles away. Simultaneously violent atmospheric disturbances and sea waves of tremendous size swept over the island causing a great loss of life, estimated as high as 30,000. Scientists computed that the volcanic blast was carried by upper air currents around the world twice and gave rise to a succession of widely distributed sunsets of remarkable intensity.

As a result of the disturbances,
the whole north part of the island disappeared, including its highest peak.

AT FAILS TO KEEP COOLIDGE
FROM HIS DAILY FISHING TRIP

President's Color Is Better Than His When He Reached Wisconsin,
But He Is Not Tanned.

By the Associated Press.
ST. CECILIA, Wis., Aug. 9.—His returning enthusiasm undisturbed
by the hottest day of his vacation,
President Coolidge ordered John Rock, his Indian guide, to be sent as usual this morning to take him on the stream. Despite many hours spent yesterday under glare which brought the temperature into the nineties, Mr.
Coolidge has not been tanned by the sun. He wears a broad-brimmed hat which protects his face. His general coloring, however, has improved greatly since his arrival here, but this is ascribed by White House intimates to all round improvement in his health.

BROKER HELD FOR $3,000,000 FRAUD, HAS $50,000 ASSETS

Arthur R. Newbery Is Arrested in Chicago
by U. S. Inspectors for Use of Mails in Bucket Shop Operations.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Arthur R.
Newbery, a former clerk of a New York brokerage house, who three years ago opened a brokerage concern in Chicago and now is under arrest on charges of using the mails to defraud, has liabilities which Federal authorities today said might exceed $3,000,000.

Bankers, ministers, doctors and others in Chicago and nearby states were among 2000 customers with claims ranging from $100 to $50-000, a authorities said. Maurice Klein, receiver for Newbery & Co., the name under which he operated, said the known assets were not more than $50,000.

Newbery, authorities charged,

used typical bucket shop methods.

He opened a well-appointed office and employed 10 telephone operators who solicited business over long-distance telephone wires.

Prospects were told of huge profits and though, authorities said, stocks were not bought, Newbery frequently sent checks to customers for large profits, "enlisting their support."

It is thought Newbery has a wife in Hopatcong, N. J., and postal inspectors were attempting to learn whether Newbery had turned over money or property to her.

Some of the larger claims filed with the receiver to date were:
Walter Bernuter, Gillespie, Ill., $21,546.93; W. R. Broadfield, Wil-lamsville, Ill., $12,142; P. E. Foster, Wood River, Ill., $7985.

Excavators Find Stables
OF SOLOMON AT ARMAGEDDON

Chicago U. Expedition Uncovers Evidence of King's Activity In Chariot Trade.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Evidence that King Solomon had a pure blooded horse for the chariot trade, is now uncovered for the eyes of archeologists.

P. L. O. Guy, field director of an expedition of the University of Chicago, has reported the discovery of the famous stables of Solomon at Armageddon, Palestine.

The 3000-year-old stables cover half an acre on the town site of the ancient battle site, north of Jerusalem, Guy reported.

Dr. James Henry Breasted, director of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, has long been eagerly awaiting the discovery of the stables.

"Such a discovery will be of the greatest historical importance," he declared. "Few people are aware that Solomon was not only an Oriental sovereign but likewise a successful merchant. Not the least of his activities was his enterprise as a horse dealer."

CALIFORNIA PROVIDES QUAKE
FOR SEISMOLOGISTS' MEETING

It Comes, However, While Jesuit Delegates Are Asleep; They Are Housed to See Record.

By the Associated Press.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 9.—The convention of the Jesuit Seismo-logists' Association of America was voted almost a complete success today. Last year, when it met in Chicago, the earthquake experts were invited to convene here in 1928 and as a special inducement were promised a real earthquake during the convention.

At 10:55 o'clock last night the peninsular area from San Francisco to San Jose was rocked gently
by an earth tremor which lasted about a minute and a half. The delegates, however, slept through it.

Father Henry, assistant director of the observatory at the University of Santa Clara here, was working among his instruments when the shock was registered. He rounded up the delegates so they might examine the record immediately. No damage was reported.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The Evening
News says that Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, who recently was killed in a fall from his airplane over the English Channel, left $40,000,000, to be divided equally between his widow and son.

The newspaper adds that it understands in the last three weeks before his death Capt. Loewenstein lost about $60,000,000.

KELLOGG PACT BEFORE LEAGUE

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Aug. 9.—Great Britain officially brought the Kellogg pact to outlaw war before the League of Nations today by transmitting copies of its two notes to Washington on the question.

The league also was informed by Britain that signature of the Kellogg treaty would not involve a conflict with her obligations resulting from membership in the league.

DROUHIN, FRENCH PILOT KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Fatally Hurt in Testing Ship Preparatory to Trans-Atlantic Venture.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Maurice Drouhin, one of France's foremost pilots, died today from injuries suffered in the final test flight of the plane in which he hoped shortly to realize his life's ambition—a flight from Paris to New York.

When the plane Arc-en-Ciel
(Rainbow) crashed on the landing field at Orly aerodrome yesterday it killed Mechanic Lannes, Manuel, another member of the trans-Atlantic crew was injured, as was Gianoli, an engineer.

The plane was roaring close to the ground at about 125 miles an hour when spectators noticed a huge wing whirling. The engines were cut off and the machine shot almost perpendicularly into the air to a height of about 450 feet. Then it slid to one side and crashed to the ground.

The plane was of novel design and built entirely of wood. Recently it had been crashed by a Cousinet, 24-year-old designer of the machine, had sunk all his savings into the project and what he could gather from friends. He was in despair today at the tragic death of two of his collaborators and the wreck of all his hopes. By strange chance it was the first flight that Cousinet had not gone up in the machine which had performed satisfactorily in all previous tests.

Joseph Lebriz, who was to have gone on the plane on its trans-Atlantic flight in the capacity of navigator, had intended to go on the fatal flight, but he arrived at the field a half hour late.

Drouhin, who was 37 years old,
at one time held the world's duration flight record. He was a years chief pilot for the Farman company and was known as one of France's greatest civilian aviators.

NO MORE SMELLING WRITS
Prohibition Bureau Rules Agents
Must Have Evidence of Sales.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, head of the prohibition unit, said today that an investigation would be made into charges that Federal employees were responsible for the disappearance of more than $100,000 worth of liquor stored in the Cosmopolitan warehouse at New York. The charges were made by representatives of the warehouse during hearings conducted by prohibition officials after the liquor had disappeared.

Lowman also said that "smelling" warrants through which prohibition agents sometimes raided private dwellings would no longer be used. Hereafter, when an agent smelled something he suspected was brewing or distilling of alcoholic beverages in a private dwelling he could obtain a search warrant and investigate the premises. The new ruling makes warrants necessary to search private homes the warrants to be obtained only upon evidence of sale of liquor on the premises.

PATTERSON LEADS FRANK BY 5385 IN SENATE RACE

Count From 3428 of State's 4134 Precincts Gives Former 96,589 and Latter 91,204.

PLURALITY AROUND 14,000 EXPECTED

Proctor Likely to Gain on St. Louis in Rural Districts—Caulfield 65,000
Ahead of Bennett.

With returns of the primary election Tuesday reported from more than seven-eighths of the 4134 precincts in the State on the major offices and from on the minor offices, the results of all races were about three-fourths determined. It is not thought that the missing precincts can change the now apparent result in any contest. All that remains now is for the belated returns to show exactly the pluralities received.

Charles M. Hay's plurality over James A. Collet for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator probably will fall a little short of 40,000. With returns from 3679 precincts Hay had a lead of 22,556. The vote stood: Hay, 156,399; Collet, 134,143; Young, 28,690.

Wilson's Lead Nearly 200,000.
Francis M. Wilson's plurality over State Senator A. L. McCawley for the Democratic nomination for Governor will approach 200-000. Reports from 3674 precincts gave Wilson a lead of 170,087. The vote stood: Wilson, 234,507; Mc-Cawley, 64,420; Harding, 18,322.

Roose C. Patterson's plurality over Nathan Frank for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, it is indicated, will be between 12,000 and 14,000. He had a lead of 5319 on reports from 3445 precincts. The vote stood:
Patterson, 96,734; Frank, 91,420;
Proctor, 78,623; Bundschu, 29,954;
Atkeson, 14,021; Boggy, 10,847.

Henry S. Caulfield's plurality for the Republican nomination for Governor is expected to reach nearly 65,000. Reports from 2389 precincts gave him a lead of 59-858. The vote stood: Caulfield, 145,365; Bennett, 85,597; Schneider, 34,355; Wieland, 21,860; Hodgdon, 26,377.

A temporary lead gained by Frank when virtually complete returns from St. Louis were received yesterday afternoon was wiped out an hour or so later when additional returns were reported from out-state precincts and Patterson again took the lead.

Proctor Expected to Gain.
The missing precincts are in rural parts of the state, and on the basis of returns from similar precincts, Patterson gradually will increase his lead. Proctor is expected to gain on Frank in these late returns, but it is not likely he will be able to take second place from him.

The results on other offices follow:

Democratic State Offices.

Harris of Columbia, former State Senator, nominated, 3558 precincts, Harris, 88,651; Brickey,

21,731; Baird, 19,238; Anderson, 50,203; Hammer, 18,895; Harris' lead, 12,862.

Secretary of State—State Senator Dwight H. Brown of Poplar Bluff, nominated, 2584 precincts, Brown, 158,354; O'Brien, 113,313.
Brown's lead, 75,071.

Richmond, member of State Tax Commission, nominated, 2582 pre-

TUNNEY'S WEDDING TO HEIRESS SET FOR LATE AUTUMN

Fiancee, Miss Mary Lauder, Is Granddaughter of Millionaire Partner of Carnegie in Steel.

HER MOTHER TELLS OF ENGAGEMENT

Pair Met Five Years Ago
When She Was 16 Years Old—Champion to Go Abroad Aug. 16.

By the Associated Press.
SOUTH BRISTOL, Me., Aug. 9.— Gene Tunney, whose retirement as heavyweight champion is estimated to have cost him $1,000,000 or more in potential ring earnings, is to marry the granddaughter of one of the early Pittsburgh millionaires.

His engagement to Miss Mary Josephine Rowland Lauder, granddaughter of George Lauder, one of the organizers of the Carnegie Steel Co., and a cousin of Andrew Carnegie, was announced yesterday by Mrs. George Lauder Jr., his fiancée's mother, from her summer home at John's Island near here.

The marriage will take place in New York in the late autumn or winter, the announcement said.
Tunney is with his fiancée and her family at John's Island.

The announcement confirmed reports, current since he announced his retirement from the ring on July 31 after defeating Tom Heeney, that a forthcoming marriage was the real reason for his retirement. Since he won the championship Tunney has earned approximately $2,000,000.

Miss Lauder is the daughter of the late George Lauder Jr., prominent yachtsman of 10 years ago, who inherited a fortune from his father and increased it during his lifetime. Her family is listed in the social register and she is a member of the Junior League of New York and Greenwich, Conn. She is a graduate of the Lenox school, and the Finch school for Girls of New York and Versailles, France.

She is tall and dark, a striking beauty as compared with Tunney, who is fair. She is an Episcopalian.
He is a Catholic. Miss Lauder is 21 years old and first met Tunney when she was 16. Tunney is 30 years old.

He is scheduled to sail for Europe Aug. 16 for a walking tour of Europe and Germany with Thornton Wilder, the author. Wilder is already abroad and it is not thought the engagement will change Tunney's plans. He purchased an old farm house near Stamford, Conn., last winter which is being remodeled and it is don't thought will take his bride there after their marriage.

Ire of Tunney Aroused by Pursuing Reporter.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SOUTH BRISTOL, Me., Aug. 9.— Gene Tunney, who discarded his world's heavyweight boxing crown in favor of matrimony, was followed today to the island of his fiancee by a Hearst reporter. By motor boat, the reporter was taken to the rear of John's Island, where the Lauder summer home is. The reporter eluded three guards and car wrestled the bar from her. The young woman snatched her hat
from her blond hair and slapped
the man in the face. At Fifty-ninth street the trolley came off,
and the young woman disappeared.

HOOVER INVITED TO SPEAK IN FOUR CALIFORNIA CITIES

G. O. P. Nominee Expected to Attend Picnic of Other Native-Born Iowans at Long Beach.

MOSES ARRIVES FOR CONFERENCE

Republican Standard Bearer, 54 Years Old Tomorrow, to Be Guest at Birthday Party.

By the Associated Press.
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 9.—California will give Herbert Hoover a tumultuous farewell as it sends him forth next week in quest of the presidency.

Moving southward from his home here a week from today, the Republican presidential nominee will be the central figure in receptions in four cities, if he accepts the invitations which have poured in on him. These are Santa Barbara, Pasadena, Los Angeles and Long Beach.

At the last place the nominee will be greeted by thousands of other native-born Iowans, who will gather there for their annual picnic. Usually from 30,000 to 40,000 persons attend this function each August. Since his self-imposed silence will be lifted with the delivery of his acceptance speech here Saturday, the nominee is expected to deliver addresses at all of these places, with the principal ones in the civic center at Los Angeles, where he will be formally welcomed by city officials and at the outing of Iowans.

Moses Arrives for Conference.
Hoover had an engagement today with Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the notification committee, to go over the program for the ceremonies the day after tomorrow at the University stadium.

Tomorrow he will confer with Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee, who will arrive here then from Washington and Chicago. Other party leaders also will arrive from virtually every state in the union tomorrow, and the nominee's time will be well taken up with conferences with them.

Hoover 54 Tomorrow.
But he has left his engagement book clear for tomorrow night, when the fifty-fourth anniversary of his birth will be celebrated. The candidate will be the guest of newspaper correspondents who accompanied him across the continent at a birthday dinner at a Palo Alto hotel. And later he will join his family and a number of relatives who are coming here to see him officially notified of his election as the Republican standard bearer.

While Hoover will be busy during the days immediately preceding and after his notification with details of campaign work, he hopes to be able to take another motor trip into the mountains before leaving his home state. His personal preference is to visit the Tuolumne Meadows, in the Sierra, but it may be that he will take his party to Yosemite National Park, instead, as the motor trip there is not nearly so difficult as that to the Meadows.

Hoover also is again considering a stopover of one day at the Grand Canyon in Arizona, as he will have ample time to do so during his journey to his birthplace at West Branch, Ia., where he is due on Aug. 21. The local news taken here completed the first draft of his Iowa speech, which is to deal first with his homecoming and his boyhood days there, and secondly with the farm relief problem, which he also is to discuss in his acceptance address.

Rehearse Saturday's Ceremony.
A dress rehearsal of the Republican notification ceremonies, with Hoover in the star role, was held yesterday in the university stadium. Although some of the props were missing, the action moved with precision and it was announced that everything was in readiness for the start at 3:30 p. m. Saturday of California's big show.

Accompanied by officers of the university, the Republican presidential nominee went to the vast bowl early in the day and spent more than an hour looking over the ground and testing out his voice on the loud speakers which have been installed on a high platform directly above the speaker's platform.

After talking through the microphone, Hoover will be busy during the days immediately preceding and after his notification with details of campaign work, he hopes to be able to take another motor trip into the mountains before leaving his home state.

"Genius" of Toombs Exalted By Insurance Publication

THE character and business "genius" of Roy C. Toombs of Chicago, president of the International Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis, who removed $2,500,000 from the company, causing a shortage of that amount in the assets, was set forth at length and with much praise in a special article of "The Spectator" for June, an American weekly publication devoted to the insurance business, published in Chicago and New York.

The article is typical of the booster write-up. It proclaims Toombs as an insurance expert and able executive with large personal fortune, bent upon "materializing a dream of a giant life insurance organization, built upon a sound and conservative structure and actuated by lofty but practical idealism."

After reviewing Toombs' boyhood labors on a farm in Kansas, as a railroad telegrapher, insurance solicitor and loan broker in Chicago, his purchase of control in the International Life is reached in these words:

"His ardent and ambition thoroughly aroused, he purchased control with his own personal fortune."

Neither the examiners, who discovered the $2,500,000 shortage in the assets of the International Life, caused by the removal of this sum by Toombs, nor the commissioners from the states in which the company does business, have been able to trace any personal fortune to Toombs.

It is now known he purchased control of the International with borrowed money at a fancy price, and if he ever had any considerable experience as an insurance expert or executive, reports of insurance companies to the Commissioners do not show it.

The article points out that the principal item in the $2,500,000 assets of the company consists of $22,000,000 of mortgage loans, for the most part on farm lands in the Middle West.

"Their value," the article goes on to state, "is assured by the experience of Mr. Toombs, an expert in this line, being capable, if occasion arises, to operate successfully the farms himself."

"The life insurance world in general is to be congratulated on the entrance of Mr. Toombs to its ranks, as he has proved himself an able executive, with an ability to surround himself with experienced assistants who are intent on materializing their president's dream of a giant life insurance organization, built upon a sound and conservative structure."

There was a supplement with the magazine in the issue containing the article. It was a large pencil portrait of Toombs which is reproduced with this article.

statement, said he could not do so at that time. The examiners thereupon accepted this statement as an admission of the shortage by the president of the company, and accordingly reported to the insurance commissioners of the states in which the International does business.

Since public disclosure of the shortage, Toombs has remained in Chicago, leaving his subordinates here to deal with a situation that involves possible reorganization of the company to save it. He has stated to newspaper men in Chicago that "there is nothing wrong, nothing startling, when the proper time comes" he will explain anything that needs explaining.

Protecting Policyholders.
Meantime plans for saving the company for the minority stockholders and policy holders are going forward. There has been a tentative offer by another company to reimburse the policy holders, and a second plan is under discussion for a reorganization of the company with new capital, which would out Toombs and his associates.

The reorganizers and officials of the company, possibly including Toombs, who said he would come to St. Louis, will meet in the company's offices tomorrow with insurance commissioners from the states in which the company does business. Any plan for reorganization will be submitted at this meeting to the Commissioners for their approval and will be reported at a meeting of the stockholders, to be held Monday.

Legal Action Threatened.
It is learned that if Toombs does not restore the $3,500,000 he is charged with taking from the company before Monday, legal action will be taken to recover the money and bring to account every one responsible for its removal.

Commissioners from other states who are here watching developments of the plans for reorganization of the company were declined to discuss the situation, except to remark that it was a "naughty mess" and "the worst case of mismanagement in the history of this business." They declared there is no case of record to equal the manipulations that took place in financing the purchase of the International by Toombs.

POLICE STOP ENDURANCE DANCE IN ONTARIO AFTER 210 HOURS

Authorities Halt Contest at Crystal Beach as Nuisance to Participants' Health.

By the Associated Press.

CRYSTAL BEACH, Ontario, Aug. 9.—Ending a grind that had been going more than 210 hours, the provincial government yesterday stopped an endurance dance in Crystal Beach pavilion promoted by Milton D. Crandall.

Four police officers ordered the promoter to stop the dance under a clause of the provincial criminal code which regards as nuisances a contest tending to endanger the health of the public or individuals. The order was issued by Attorney-General Price.

The police were still shuffling wearily around the hall. They had held rest periods of only 15 minutes each hour since the dance began July 30 with 12 entrants who sought prize money totaling $2000.

William Downing of Los Angeles, Cal., who participated in C. C. Pyle's cross-country race, and his partner, Leta Mentz, were favored to win.

At 12:30 o'clock, they entered the hardware store of Horace Koeln, a nephew of City Collector Ed Koeln, at 641 Michigan avenue, and took $50 from the cash register after threatening Koeln and two customers with pistols.

Fifteen minutes later the same pair appeared at the butcher shop and store of George Meserbrink, 6016 South Grand boulevard. They waited until Meserbrink had served a woman customer, then drew pistols and forced Meserbrink and an employee into an icebox. They took $150 from the cash register. The money was insured.

FULL COUNTY RETURNS DON'T CHANGE RESULT

Castlen, Reform Nominee for Prosecutor, Wins by 117 Votes Over Denny.

Complete tabulation today of the unofficial returns of Tuesday's primary election in St. Louis County showed no change in the results, either as to nominations for local offices or candidates gaining pluralities in the county for State offices.

The complete figures, however, cut down the lead of Harry W. Castlen for the Republican nomination for Prosecuting Attorney over Robert B. Denny to 117 votes. Castlen, who is at present County Counselor, or legal adviser to the administrative body, is the candidate for prosecutor of the reform ticket of the Taxpayers' League. Denny, an Assistant Prosecuting Attorney now, and son of former Coroner Denny, received considerable support from his father and was supported also by elements which the league opposed. With the last three precincts missing yesterday, Castlen had had a 414-vote plurality.

Figures in the unofficial count for the race were checked carefully to assure accuracy. The relative standing of the two candidates may be changed by the official count, to be made by the County Election Board shortly, but the talk at Clayton courthouse conceded that Castlen is likely to retain the nomination.

A law of 1921, providing for a recount of ballots by the Election Board, in a contest of a nomination, was held to be unconstitutional two years ago, but it was pointed out when that decision was given that a defeated candidate could file a contest suit in Circuit Court, which then could order a recount as evidence in the case. However, such a procedure hardly could be carried out between now and the November election.

Schmidt's Opposition Split.
The plurality of Schmidt over the league's candidate for Republican nomination for Sheriff is 1286. There were three other candidates and but for this divided opposition the might have won this place on the ticket, too. The same is true in the Republican nomination for Coroner. Roland H. Bopp, son of the present Coroner, has a 738-vote plurality over Dr. John H. Sutter, league candidate, and a comparative vote. The same is true in the Republican nomination for Coroner. Roland H. Bopp, son of the present Coroner, has a 738-vote plurality over Dr. John H. Sutter, league candidate, and a comparative vote.

Although the small Democratic vote in the county gave a notable plurality to Francis M. Wilson, the nominee for Governor, it gave a plurality of only 25 votes to Samuel H. Harris, the nominee for Lieutenant-Governor. Rosenfeld had been a leading advocate of outright annexation of the county by the city, to which county voters have objected strenuously.

There is a close race for Democratic nomination for Constable of St. Ferdinand Township, and the official count may change the unofficial result. Justice of the Peace Irvine H. Skinner is credited with 273 votes in the unofficial canvass, while his opponent, John J. Fahey, has 232.

State Senator Ralph (Rep.) of Valley Park, gained a decisive victory for renomination over Orla M. Hill of Overland in the Twenty-fifth District, comprising Franklin, Gasconade and St. Louis counties. With all precincts reported except one in Franklin County, the vote is 22,945 for Ralph against 9856 for Hill.

It appears that many Democrats entered the Republican primary in chief purpose of supporting the Taxpayers' League slate, but the preponderance of Republicans there is greater than ever before. Nevertheless, politicians expect a considerable number of Republicans at the November election to vote for Gov. Smith for President, and think that many of these voters will support Democrats for State and local offices also. Therefore, Democratic nominees in the county are much hopeful of the possibility of success than is usually the case. Republican leaders are preparing to fight for the casting of straight G. O. P. ballots.

The unofficial count in St. Louis County follows:

SERVICE BOARD BEGINS HEARING ON SKIP-STOP

Authority of State Commission to Rule on Olive Street Situation Assured.

A hearing on the city's petition to abandon the skip-stop system on Olive street was begun today at City Hall before the State Commission on Public Service. The commission is authorized to rule on the city's petition to abandon the skip-stop system on Olive street.

At first questioned the commission's jurisdiction in such a matter, contending that the city alone had authority, under an ordinance requiring cars to stop at every intersection, L. H. Landau, lawyer for the company, said he was not urging the commission to take jurisdiction, but that the law giving it general authority over service seemed to apply. Commissioner Porter gave his individual ruling that this law did apply and proceeded with the hearing.

J. S. Branham, in the artificial leg business at 1912 Olive street, chairman of the committee, said that at No. 3030, and Stacey C. Milligan, manager of the New Plaza Hotel, No. 3362, the first witnesses, all testified that the skipping of stops was hurting the businesses, as customers and guests would not or could not walk as far to reach them. About 50 persons were present to testify and the hearing is expected to last for several days.

Counsel for the Public Service Co. argued, at another hearing this morning before Commissioner Porter, that the company was not bound by a contract made in 1917 by a predecessor corporation, requiring the former company to run books of commutation tickets to residents of Overland.

The hearing, held in the Board of Public Service room at City Hall, was attended by a group of suburban residents, who have had to pay 16 cents to reach the Delmar loop in University City, and the Public Service Co. revoked the commutation book arrangement. The contract says the books shall be sold at the rate of 40 fares to $2. The complainants are not trying to hold the company to the 5-cent fare, and are willing to pay the 8-cent fare, but they object to two such fares.

The contract was made in consideration of the donation of land for the company's right-of-way and of cash and stock given to induce the street railway company to build what is now the Crown Coeur line.

Meanwhile, following the discovery of fingerprints other than Kelly's, police worked on the theory that someone else may have knowledge of the killing and summoned for examination several persons who knew Mrs. Mellus, including her husband, who was prominent in sports and fraternal circles.

Husband Furnishes Alibi. The demand of H. H. Hahn, attorney for Kelly, that Mellus explain why it was that he found the body of his wife "when he came home at 3:30 p. m." Sunday and did not report it to the police until 1:24 p. m. was met by nine affidavits from persons who said they saw Mellus leave a fishing barge at 4:30 p. m. Mellus said he returned home at 5 p. m. and telephoned the police as soon as he could recover from the shock of finding his wife's body. Kelly was found hiding in a closet.

A Negro maid in the home testified at the inquest that she had served coffee and liquor to Mrs. Mellus and Kelly for breakfast that morning after Mellus left. Police testified that Kelly told them he had quarreled with Mrs. Mellus the previous Thursday night when she had gone out with Mrs. Mae Switzer, wife of a merchant. Mrs. Switzer was named as a woman who had attended "wild parties" participated in by Kelly and Mrs. Mellus. Mrs. Switzer still was being sought by police, as were two other women whose names police declined to disclose.

R. W. Butler, prominent architect, was named as an attendant at the parties.

HUSBAND OF SLAIN WEALTHY WOMAN FINGER-PRINTED

Expert Says Marks in Bathroom Not Those of Butcher Charged With Murder of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus.

WIFE OF MERCHANT SOUGHT BY POLICE

She Is Said to Have Accompanied Meat Cutter and Victim on Many of Their Drinking Parties.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—An unidentified fingerprint outlined on a bathroom medicine chest, today gave investigators more work to do before starting the prosecution of Leo P. Kelly, 29 years old, meat cutter, charged with the murder of his wealthy friend, Mrs. Myrtle L. Mellus.

As Kelly and his attorney continued to protest his innocence, a County grand jury yesterday returned an indictment charging him with killing the woman. His trial probably will be set for Aug. 23. A police fingerprint expert found Kelly's prints on the neck of a beer bottle from which he poured drinks for Mrs. Mellus last Sunday during a drinking party that preceded the slaying.

After examining the bathroom fingerprint, the expert reported that it was not Kelly's. He said that it might have been made by any of the dozen or more detectives, newspapermen and sightseers who swarmed into the house after Mrs. Mellus' nude body was found there by her husband.

The fingerprints of Frank Mellus, the husband, have been taken for recording, while the police are obtaining those of others known to have visited the scene of the slaying.

Kelly, who, according to evidence and police findings, was for five years the woman's companion at many drinking parties, has admitted he was at the Mellus home on the afternoon Mrs. Mellus was found dead, and that he was in love with the woman and had been drinking with her on the day of her death.

Meanwhile, following the discovery of fingerprints other than Kelly's, police worked on the theory that someone else may have knowledge of the killing and summoned for examination several persons who knew Mrs. Mellus, including her husband, who was prominent in sports and fraternal circles.

Mellus said he returned home at 5 p. m. and telephoned the police as soon as he could recover from the shock of finding his wife's body. Kelly was found hiding in a closet.

A Negro maid in the home testified at the inquest that she had served coffee and liquor to Mrs. Mellus and Kelly for breakfast that morning after Mellus left. Police testified that Kelly told them he had quarreled with Mrs. Mellus the previous Thursday night when she had gone out with Mrs. Mae Switzer, wife of a merchant. Mrs. Switzer was named as a woman who had attended "wild parties" participated in by Kelly and Mrs. Mellus. Mrs. Switzer still was being sought by police, as were two other women whose names police declined to disclose.

R. W. Butler, prominent architect, was named as an attendant at the parties.

Gov. Baker May Reappoint Freund to Police Board. It was learned in political circles today that Gov. Baker has under consideration asking Arthur J. Freund to accept reappointment to the Police Board to finish out his term expiring next Jan. 1.

After serving three years on the board, Freund resigned recently to become a Republican candidate for Circuit Attorney. He ran second to Circuit Attorney Sidner in Tuesday's primary. The vacancy created by his resignation has not been filled.

Y., under police escort on her way to police station for questioning in connection with the fatal stabbing of her husband, Glenn Kirkwood, 26, a veterinary surgeon. FORTUNE OF W. T. HILL SHRANK TO $300,000

Under Market Plunger's Will Bequest to Widow Is to Be Paid First.

The varying fortunes of William T. Hill, spectacular grain market plunger who died a month ago at Asheville, N. C., had fallen so sharply in the last several years that his estate is not likely to total more than $300,000, it was learned today, following the filing of his will yesterday at Clayton.

Hill, who had given away as well as lost huge sums in his lifetime, apparently realized the insecurity of the fortunes of the market player, for he provided an order in his will in which his heirs are to be paid the estate in not large enough to cover the $450,000 in bequests.

To his widow, Mrs. Meta Hill, he left $240,000, specifying that she was to be the first to obtain her bequest. Other beneficiaries are Lucy Hill, a sister, of Sedalia, $60,000; Stanley Hill, a brother, $60,000; William E. Engel, nephew and business associate, $25,000; Mrs. Jennie P. Engel, $15,000; Ruth C. Engel, $15,000; William B. Moody Jr., of Greeley, Colo., $10,000 and Lucy Byrd Moody, also of Greeley, $10,000.

If the estate is not large enough to cover all bequests it is ordered by the testator that they be paid in full in the order named. A lot on Market street is left in trust with the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. to Lucy and Stanley Hill and Mrs. Stokes Temple Hill, wife of Stanley. In the event it is needed to fill prior bequests, however, the lot is to be sold, and if any funds are left from its sale after the bequests are made it is to be placed in trust for Lucy Hill and at her death is to go to the Moody's.

If there should be any residue of the estate left after bequests are made it is to be held in trust for the widow, and at her death it is to go to Engel.

GUS WEBBE TAKEN BACK. Murder Convict Returned to Boonville After "Vacation."

Gus Webbe, Cuckoo gangster and murderer, arrested here Monday while on a week's furlough from Boonville Reformatory, was driven back to Boonville today, handcuffed and guarded by three city detectives.

Webbe's relatives and friends made futile efforts to obtain bond for him, so he could enjoy his vacation. Police, however, refused bond, declaring Webbe a public menace and criticizing the action of Supt. C. M. Harrison of the reformatory for turning Webbe loose in St. Louis.

30 INJURED WHEN BUS TURNS OVER

Chicago-to-Cleveland Conveyance Leaves Pavement Near La Grange, Ind.

LA GRANGE, Ind., Aug. 9.—Thirty persons were injured, one seriously when a Chicago-to-Cleveland bus left the pavement six miles west of here late last night and turned over.

Most of those hurt were only bruised. After having their injuries treated at a nearby farmhouse most of the passengers were sent on to Cleveland in another bus.

Carl Rutter, 30 years old, of Chicago, driver of the bus, was the most seriously injured. He was taken to the La Grange hospital. Most passengers were from Chicago. Rutter said the bright lights from the car of a passing motorist caused him to lose control of the bus.

THINKS LOVELACE SHOOTING LIKELY WAS ACCIDENTAL

Lieut. Coakley Reports That Former Efficiency Board Member Evidently Wounded Himself.

Detective-Lieutenant John Coakley, detailed by Chief of Police Gerk to investigate the death of Thomas H. Lovelace, former member of the Efficiency Board, who was found shot to death in his apartment at the Fairmont Hotel, 4907 Maryland avenue Monday afternoon, today reported that the wound evidently was self-inflicted, either accidentally or with suicidal intent.

An open verdict was returned at an inquest yesterday. The wound was not powder-burned, but Lovelace's shirt was Coakley reported. The word "accident," scribbled on an envelope found near the body, was in Lovelace's writing, and the pencil used was found under the body.

Lovelace had planned to take his revolver on a motor trip and had spoken of cleaning it. The weapon, from which one shot had been fired, was found in a partly opened drawer and a green cloth in which it had been wrapped was hanging from the drawer.

Lovelace's widow told Coakley that when she went riding Monday morning with friends, Lovelace was in good spirits and intended to accompany the party that night to the Municipal Opera, with which he was connected as a member of the Executive Committee. Explaining Lovelace's presence at home around noon, when he was shot, Mrs. Lovelace said he was a fastidious dresser and probably had returned home to change apparel. A blue tie which he had been wearing in the morning was found on his dresser.

Coakley agrees with Mrs. Lovelace that the shooting probably was accidental. He reports that Lovelace carried life insurance amounting to $12,000 and formerly carried accident insurance, but had permitted it to lapse.

Lovelace was in debt, but not to a great extent, according to a business associate.

Dr. Martin apparently took over Dr. Manning's "practice," Oyer said. A cursory examination of Dr. Martin's records disclosed to the inspectors that he had issued more than 3000 prescriptions for cocaine and morphine in the last eight months. Hundreds of addicts, known to have obtained prescriptions for narcotics from Dr. Manning, were included among the more recent "patients" of Dr. Martin, the inspectors said.

Feigenbaum, who was among the druggists investigated in Dr. Manning's case, filed most of the prescriptions issued by Dr. Martin, the inspectors charge. It was through an examination of his records that attention was directed to Dr. Martin. Because of Dr. Martin's advanced age he was warned against the practice of writing large numbers of prescriptions for morphine and cocaine.

Dr. Martin was one of the expert witnesses through whom Dr. Manning attempted to prove at his trial in Federal Court that the drug habit can be cured through administration of narcotics in reduced amounts. Dr. Martin's testimony was favorable to the Government's case, as he testified that he considered no cure effective for drug addicts unless they were confined while undergoing it.

Dr. Martin will be charged under Sections 1, 2 and 8 of the Harrison Law, covering sale of narcotics, according to Oyer. It was following conviction under these

DOCTOR, DRUGGIST HELD; ISSUED 3000 ORDERS FOR DOPE

Dr. T. A. Martin, 74, Wrote Prescriptions and Solomon Feigenbaum Filled Most of Them.

Dr. T. A. Martin, 74-year-old physician with offices in the Metropolitan Building, and Solomon Feigenbaum, proprietor of the Missouri Drug Co., 1041 North Vandeventer avenue, were arrested by Government narcotic inspectors yesterday on charges of conspiracy to violate the Harrison anti-narcotic law. They were released on $3000 bond each pending a preliminary hearing next Monday.

A second druggist, Walter D. Davidson, proprietor of a drug store at 1909 Cass avenue, and a pharmacist employed by Davidson, William L. Neu, were arrested today. They were accused of filling between 400 and 500 subscriptions made out by Dr. Martin. They also were released on $3000 bond each pending preliminary hearing.

According to Ralph H. Oyer, narcotic agent in charge of the Kansas City division, who worked with Charles S. Thompson, St. Louis narcotic agent, on the case, Dr. Martin began issuing large numbers of prescriptions for habit-forming drugs last December after the State Board of Health revoked the physician's license of Dr. Thomas S. Manning, now serving a 10-year sentence in Federal prison, because of similar practices.

Dr. Martin apparently took over Dr. Manning's "practice," Oyer said. sections that Dr. Manning was sentenced to serve 10 years in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan. Feigenbaum will be charged with unlawfully filling prescriptions calling for unusual amounts of narcotics.

Negro in Race for Congress Hopeful of Beating Dyer

Democrat Counts on 75 Per Cent of Vote of His Race in Twelfth District—G. O. P. Incumbent Running for Ninth Term.

With Joseph L. McLemore—said to be the first Negro nominated for Congress by Democrats anywhere—opposing L. C. Dyer, veteran Republican Congressman, an interesting political fight impends in the Twelfth District.

McLemore says 65 per cent of the vote in his district is Negro and counts on swinging three-fourths of it in the November election, in addition to at least part of the white Democratic vote. In that event party lines in the district will be broken, for heretofore the district has been normally Republican by an easy margin.

Dyer, on the other hand, says only one-third of the vote in his district is Negro. He is running for his ninth term in Congress. In the past the Negro Republican vote has been a big factor in his success.

McLemore's First Race. McLemore, a lawyer, 31 North Jefferson avenue, who defeated E. G. Hancock, a former Police Sergeant, for the nomination Tuesday, is running for office for the first time.

The Twelfth District cuts through the center of the city from the levee as far west as Boyle and Newstead avenues. The south boundaries include Rutger street, Lafayette and Polson avenues. On the north it is bounded by Carr, Wash and Bidwell streets, Lucas avenue, Delmar boulevard and Cook avenue.

In the last election two years ago Dyer got 14,494 votes in the district and his Democratic opponent 3120.

"Most of the Democratic vote is white," said McLemore. "In the past the Negroes have been voting the Republican ticket, but this year Gov. Al Smith is going to be a big drawing power among the Negroes and many of those who formerly supported the Republican ticket are going to vote the Democratic ticket straight—from Smith on down."

"The trouble is the Negro has been too strong a Republican. As a result, the Republicans count the Negro vote ahead of time and they don't do anything for him. In New York City the Negroes vote Democratic and consequently the Negro gets recognition there with an occasional office."

A determined man who won an illustration of narcotics in reduced amounts. Dr. Martin's testimony was favorable to the Government's case, as he testified that he considered no cure effective for drug addicts unless they were confined while undergoing it.

Dr. Martin will be charged under Sections 1, 2 and 8 of the Harrison Law, covering sale of narcotics, according to Oyer. It was following conviction under these

SLOWLY DROWNED WITH FOOT CAUGHT BETWEEN PILINGS

Tender of Philadelphia Drawbridge Struggles Four Hours to Free Self Till Tide Covers Him.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—With his foot wedged in a draw-bridge, John Ryan, a bridge tender, was slowly drowned yesterday in the rising tide of the Delaware river. Ryan was tender on the draw-bridge over Frankford Creek near the point at which it empties into the Delaware. He went beneath the bridge at low tide to grease the mechanism exposed by receding water. Slipping, his foot became wedged between two pilings.

For four hours Ryan struggled to free himself and shouted for help as the tide lapped steadily higher upon him. No one heard his cries until the water was to his neck and he was exhausted from his struggles. Men who responded at last, were unable to extricate him and a hurry call was sent for a police patrol boat.

When the boat arrived the water had closed over the bridge tender.

HUGH McLOON, EX-MASCOT OF BALL TEAM, SHOT TO DEATH

Former Employee of Philadelphia Athletics Slain on Street, Two Companions Wounded. By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—Hugh McLoon, 29 years old, former mascot of the Athletics baseball team, was killed and two other men wounded, one seriously early today when three gunmen opened fire on them from a closed automobile and then sped away.

McLoon in company with William Meister, 21, and Joseph Fries, 22, had walked a block from a saloon operated by McLoon in the downtown section of the city when they were attacked. Meister was seriously wounded and Fries was shot in the leg.

McLoon's hunch-backed figure was well known here because of his activity in the boxing world, having officiated in minor capacities at numerous fights.

FLORIDA STORM TURNS INTO GULF, MISSES TAMPA

Tropical Hurricane Passes
Out to Sea After Doing Heavy Damage on East Coast and Across Center.

ABRUPTLY DIVERTED NEAR MENACED CITY

Electric Lines Torn Down, Houses Unroofed, Orchards Stripped—Wind Up to 110 Miles an Hour.

By the Associated Press.
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 9.— Passage into the Gulf of Mexico of the tropical hurricane, which ravaged part of the Florida East Coast and tore across Central Florida from east to west, was announced today by the Western Union Telegraph Co., after checking with offices in the affected area. The hurricane passed into the Gulf of Mexico last night about 50 miles north of Tampa.

Western Union officers, who said they had been able to get one wire working into Tampa this morning, charted the path of the storm from Central Florida until it passed into the Gulf, from reports obtained along the line.

After cutting a swath almost due west from Vero Beach and Fort Pierce on the east coast to Winter Haven and Haines City, in the rich citrus belt, the hurricane abruptly turned northwest after it had almost reached the outskirts of Tampa. The storm apparently was blowing itself out as it quit the peninsula, leaving its diminishing damage in its wake.

The Weather Bureau announced that the disturbance was centered at 8 a. m. "near the Gulf Coast," about 50 miles north of Tampa,
and was moving slowly up the coast in a northwesterly direction. The bureau said that due to the greatly decreased velocity of the storm it now felt no concern over it.

Storm Turns at Dade City.
The Western Union said that the greatest trouble on its wires had been near Dade City, a short distance east of Tampa, apparently the turning point for the storm.

Opinion was expressed by the Western Union that it would require at least three days to repair the damage on the east coast and re-establish full communication with Miami and points on the northern side of the storm. The wires were down some distance north of Miami, which suffered no damage.

No major damage was done in Tampa, but all telephone and telegraph lines were down within a radius of 50 miles, said a radiogram received this morning from R. S. Vance, Associated Press
operator at the Tampa Times.

The last report from Inverness at 4:30 a. m. said that winds had been blowing hard there for several hours but not of sufficient velocity to do any damage. Heavy rains fell throughout the night over the central section of the State. Orlando, the closest point to the storm's area which had outside communication, reported a heavy wind and rain but little damage.

At Dunellon, light and power lines and trees were blown down in the early morning when the storm struck, but there was little other damage.

23 Cities and Towns Hit.
Out of the 23 cities and towns in the zone of winds ranging from 40 to 110 miles an hour in velocity, came information that gave almost identical accounts of devastation.
This held true for all except the Lake Okechobee district, where flood waters were threatening the crops and small communities as tributaries rose after an 18-inch rainfall in 24 hours. The lake has risen two feet.

Heading inland at the Palm Beaches Tuesday, where minor damage occurred, the storm struck Jupiter, unroofing houses at will and snapping power lines on every hand. Much of the east coast spent Tuesday and last night in darkness, as did last night towns of the central area.

Then the storm raked Fort

Pierce, Vero Beach and Stuart, where damage estimates ranged as high as $5,000,000.

Orchards Stripped.
Next the disturbance dug into the sparsely settled East Central lake country where St. Cloud was menaced for a time by East Lake Tobacco. By late afternoon yesterday the hillocks and small cities of the Central citrus belt began to feel the terrific gale.

Already the coast citrus area in spot resembled a winter scene, with orchards stripped of leaves and fruit. Mounds of young oranges representing fortunes, littered the ground beneath the bare trees.

Lake Wales and Bartow reported a 60-mile hurricane, with the usual quota of unroofed homes and smashed store front. Haines City was practically isolated. One telephone conversation around midnight indicated power lines were broken and highways blocked.

From Orlando came first reports of highway damage. Several highway bridges near that city had been wrecked and telephone poles and power lines littered the roads like scattered matches and twine.

CHICAGO SYMPHONY SAVED

Society Sponsoring Orchestra Settles Salary Differences.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, which faced disbandment because of salary differences with the musicians' union, has signed a new agreement assuring the continuation of the organization which was founded by the late Theodore Thomas.

Under the agreement the Chicago Symphony Society, which sponsors the orchestra, is free to employ new men at a minimum of $80 a week during the first three years of service, $84 the fourth year, $87 the fifth and $90 the sixth. The orchestra is conducted by Frederick Stock.

PLAN DRAFTED FOR EXPENDITURES ON CITY AIRPORT

Tentative Budget Allocates All but $104,000 of $2,000,000 Bond Issue, Approved by Voters.

A tentative budget for expenditures under the $2,000,000 airport bond issue, approved Tuesday by the voters, was made public today by Director of Welfare Salisbury. It is likely that it will be changed in minor details by the Airport Commission to be named by Mayor Miller.

The general items of expenditure, as prepared by Maj. Albert Bond Lambert and other advocates of the bond issue, follow:
Land, 652 acres $485,000
Buildings 458,000
Rolling stock, including automobiles, tractors, field cars, etc. 20,000
Roads 90,000
Water installations 15,000
Lighting system 10,000
Runways, ditches, grading and drainage $25,000
Surveying 3,000

Total $1,896,000
Many Buildings Planned.

As outlined, the budget leaves a surplus of $104,000, a part of which is likely to be held in reserve for unforeseen expenses.

The building item in the budget covers many projects. They include an administration building with waiting offices, lookout tower and other facilities, $70,000; an administration garage, machine shop and fire apparatus house, $10,000; an air service group of two buildings, which will house radio and photographic rooms, control room and locker room, $70,000; a storehouse for explosives, flares and similar material, $50,000; a hangar and machine shop for the Officers' Reserve Corps flying squadron, $30,000; a similar layout for the Naval Reserve flying squadron, $35,000; two mail hangars, $70,000; a passenger ship hangar, $50,000, and four commercial hangars, $88,000.

In addition to these, the field buildings will include the hangars, office buildings and factories of commercial firms operating there. The land to be purchased for the field is to be bought at about $50 an acre, thanks to a plan gathered on his own initiative by Maj. Lambert. Chicago had to pay $12,000 an acre for its flying field property and San Diego paid $6000.

Maj. Lambert has agreed to sell the present field to the city, 244 acres, for $136,000, the price he paid for the property, and $200,000 less than offers he has received for it. The other tracts to be bought under option are, 65 acres, $98,000; 200 acres, $177,000, and 162 acres, $88,000.

Quick Work Promised.
Mayor Miller has pledged his administration to promptness in carrying out the work outlined for the bond issue. His first step probably will be the appointment of an Airport Commission to supervise expenditures. Next, the city will advertise the sale of the bonds, and finally it will advertise for bids on the flying field work.

Already water lines have been installed at the field at the expense of commercial companies, which will be reimbursed from bond issue funds. The excavation has begun for the air service building, and it is probable that the work of leveling the new property east and south of the present field will begin within 60 days.

Telegrams congratulating St. Louis on passage of the bond issue were received by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday from Chambers of Commerce of Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit, Oklahoma City, Dallas (Tex.) and other cities now planning or building airports.

WOMAN WHO WENT TO MEET MAN RETURNS BADLY BEATEN

Miss Dorothy Craft, 28, Unconscious in Hospital From Skull Injury.

Miss Dorothy Craft, 28 years old, a saleswoman, living with her sister at 3029 A Union boulevard, was taken to the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium shortly before noon today suffering from a skull injury and other injuries, suffered under circumstances which police are investigating.

Her sister told police Miss Craft left home yesterday morning to keep an engagement with a man. She was brought home at 2 p. m. in a taxicab from a point near 2200 Olive street road, showing signs of having been severely beaten. Her sister questioned Miss Craft, but said she was unable to learn what had happened. This morning the injured woman became unconscious.

IS ABANDONEDNorth St. Louis Business Men's Attorney in Statement Says They Have Done All They Can.Business interests in North St.
Louis that opposed granting a 50-year franchise to the Illinois Terminal System to haul freight into the downtown business district over a route creating a dangerous grade crossing at Cass avenue, have decided not to invoke a referendum on the bill. Lack of money and the absence from the city of many of the leaders of the opposition are the chief reasons assigned.Albert L. Schmidt, an attorney who represented the North St.
Louis Business Men's Association and the Cass Avenue Bank in the opposition, today issued the following statement in behalf of opponents of the measure:
"The North St. Louis Business Men's Association, various church organizations, civic leaders and business interests in North St.
Louis have been continuously engaged during the past four months in the fight made on the I. T. S. franchise in one of the most strenuous battles ever engaged in this city in the interests of the public welfare."As a result of this struggle two distinct franchises proposed in rapid succession were found to be nefarious and so destructive of the public interests that the Board of Aldermen refused to grant them.Points of Objection.
"The third grant proposed by the City Administration again met the most bitter opposition, and the final contest was waged on the following, among other grounds:"1. The establishment of a dangerous freight grade crossing at the important intersection of Twelfth and Cass avenue, where thousands of automobiles cross at all hours of the day and night."2. The establishment of this freight crossing was particularly obnoxious to North St. Louis, after the 17 years' struggle to eliminate the Delmar avenue grade crossing in the western part of the city."3. The establishment of this grade crossing was a distinct violation of promises and pledges of the administration to eliminate, rather than to create new dangerous grade crossings."4. The conversion of important public streets and highways into dangerous railroad switching yards, which constitutes a direct reversal of the position taken by the city administration before the Public Service Commission in the so-called "Brocht" case."5. The granting of a 50-year franchise to any railroad to haul freight through the streets of St.
Louis into the heart of the city at Twelfth and Washington avenue."6. The establishment of a freight terminal and depot at Twelfth and Washington avenue
where it will become a public menace and nuisance, and greatly obstructing the free flow of traffic on the new Twelfth boulevard."7. The establishment of a freight terminal and depot at the northern entrance to the Memorial Plaza constitutes a desecration of the plaza and little less than a civic crime."Indefensible Haste."
"8. The indefensible haste with which the franchise was rushed through, and for which there was no public justification."9. The granting of the franchise without ever referring the matter to the City Plan Commission for advice as to the probable effect of the franchise on the major street plans of this city, its interference with traffic movements and the defacing of beautiful boulevards and plazas with freight terminals."10. The granting of this franchise in a rush without consulting the Rapid Transit Commission, and the tying of the hands of the Rapid Transit Commission before it even begins to function, leaving the impression in the minds of many of our people that it is a useless body and should be disbanded."11. In the hasty passage, of this bill without sufficient consideration or time to work out a satisfactory solution, proper safeguards of the rights of our citizens have been disregarded and subordinated to the demands of the railroad, backed by the Insull, Studebaker and North American Co. interests, the most powerful combinations of utility interests in the country.Questions Put to Mayor.
"Under such circumstances it seems irony for the mayor to state in signing the bill that we must assume that the tribunal having jurisdiction over the subject matter will administer the law with proper regard to the safety and convenience to our citizens,
and that 'if we believe otherwise
we would have to lose faith in our institutions.'"The administration having charge of our city affairs, is one of our institutions very close to home and many of our people have already lost faith in it as a result of the granting of this franchise.
The Mayor says in signing the bill: 'As it stands, it is surrounded with all of the safeguards which is possible to devise under present conditions.' Will the city administration see that these safeguards are respected by the State

ROBINSON DEFENDS RECORD OF TAMMANY

Recalls That It Was Jefferson's Ally in "Winning Fight for the Masses."

By the Associated Press.
HOPE, Ark., Aug. 9.—In his first extended discussion of the subject since his nomination for the vice presidency by the Democratic party, Senator Joseph T.
Robinson made a strong defense of Tammany Hall in a speech here today and declared the South had no reason to object to Gov. Smith, the presidential nominee, on the Tammany score.

Devoting most of his address as the principal speaker at Hope's annual watermelon festival to a discussion of Tammany, Robinson reviewed briefly its record since the days of Thomas Jefferson, and said: "Tammany was Jefferson's principal ally and agent in winning the fight for the masses."

In a brief tribute to Gov. Smith, Senator Robinson thrust at ministers who have attacked the presidential nominee because he is a Catholic.

"Hot Shot for Ministers."
"In the light of recent history
those ministers who have abandoned their call to preach Christ and Him crucified and have converted their pulpits into political rostrums invite laughter when they whisper that if Smith becomes President the priests will dominate the Government," he declared.

After citing a number of instances to show that Tammany had always been friendly to the South, Senator Robinson said:

"Now it is said Al Smith must not be President because he is a member of Tammany Hall, and in this campaign has the support of the organization. Whatever political mistakes or sins may have been committed in the name of Tammany, they cannot be attributed to Gov. Smith."

"His is an unshackled spirit.
Tammany does not give directions to his public acts. His frankness and fearlessness often have drawn the fire of criticism. He towers above mediocrity, scorns dissimulation and takes the public into his confidence. It is bad policy to penalize honesty and courage. It is unjust to prejudice against him on insincerity. When his achievements as a great Democratic executive have been made known,
his fitness for leadership in this political crisis will be undoubted."

Jefferson formed an alliance with Tammany, Senator Robinson said, "when the founder of the Democratic party realized the necessity for a political force to oppose the Federalists under Hamilton."

"Considered as a whole the record of Tammany Hall is not so offensive, it is one of friendship to the South throughout the long period which followed the civil war, when our civilization was threatened with perversion and destruction through the process known as reconstruction."

"When Jefferson Davis was imprisoned and threatened with humiliation and disgrace, it was a Tammany sachein, Charles O'Connor, who boldly took charge of his defense, without fee, and directed it to a successful conclusion."

"The Democratic nomination for President in 1876, Samuel J. Tilden, was a member of the organization. Who will say that he was unworthy of the confidence and support of Democrats in the South or elsewhere?"

Britain's Temporary Premier.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 9.—Lord Hall-ham, Lord Chancellor of the Empire, will act as Prime Minister while Stanley Baldwin is absent on a holiday at Aix-les-Bains, it is officially announced today.

REFERENDUM ON
I. T. S. FRANCHISE
IS ABANDONED

Public Service Commission and that St. Louis gets a square deal?
What is the city administration
now doing and what does it propose to do in the future to see that the safeguards which it has provided under the present conditions will mean anything to the people of St. Louis?

Referendum Idea Abandoned.
"It has been suggested that North St. Louis sponsor a referendum as one of several of its methods of attack on the franchise. Serious consideration has been given to that question by a number of North St. Louis leaders, who feel that the issues involved are citywide, and that the referendum necessarily take the same scope."

"Immediate action would have to be taken due to the charter requirements of filing a preliminary petition with 2 per cent of the registered voters within 20 days and an additional 5 per cent
within 30 days thereafter."
"It has been deemed impossible within the short period of time thus allowed by law, with the absence from the city of many during the vacation period, and the large amount of money necessary to be raised at once to finance this undertaking against the most powerful group of financial interests in the country, for North St. Louis to undertake this method of attack on the franchise."

"The leaders in North St. Louis have already fought a long, hard battle to protect North St. Louis against this ruthless invasion of the rights of St. Louis, and feel that they have done all that is within their power to safeguard the rights of our people, and are not in a position to go ahead with a referendum."

WESTERN UNION GETS USE OF A. T. & T. WIRES

Company Also Obtains Contract for Use of Phone System Telephone Plant.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The telegraphic service of the Western Union Co. will be greatly increased in capacity as a result of several non-exclusive contracts entered into with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Among the contracts announced by President Walter S. Gifford of the telephone company is one whereby Western Union telegrams will be sent over telephone wires simultaneously with telephone conversations.

Through the use of the existing telephone lines, it is pointed out, the telegraph company will save large sums required in erecting new poles and stringing new wires, which is estimated to cost between $200 and $300 a mile.

Another contract provides for the leasing by the Western Union of apparatus developed in the Bell Telephone Laboratories for use in telegraph circuits permitting several telegraphed messages to be sent simultaneously on the same wire. A third contract makes available to Western Union patents the telephone company's telephone service for the sending of simultaneous messages.

President Gifford, in his announcement, said the company's resources were offered to the telegraph company with the view of placing the developments of the Bell Laboratories at the service of the public.

This arrangement, Walter S. Gifford, president of the A. T. & T., explained, "should ultimately result in eliminating to a large extent the present duplication of parallel pole lines and wire circuits, since, by the use of proper apparatus, it is possible to telephone and telegraph simultaneously over telephone long distance wires."

Both Gifford and Newcomb, president of the Western Union, made it clear that in consideration of financing or management was involved in the arrangement.

Carson said that a result of the contracts would be the eventual scrapping of much of the Western Union's old equipment. He declined to say whether any decrease in rates would result, explaining that that matter would depend on on the course of future developments. The A. T. & T. and its subsidiaries own approximately three-fourths of the telephones in the United States and the Western Union operates over four-fifths of the country's land telegraph service.

French Widow Charges Employee With Criminal Negligence.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The widow of the French pilot, who was killed at Bismarck while flying from Strasbourg to Paris, in a commercial plane last fall, has sued the Aerial Navigation Co., to which he was employed, charging criminal negligence.

The claim is based on a test of responsibility in such accidents and is expected to have a bearing on the results of a long series of military accidents.

Model Seven-eleven. Victrola with Radiola 18. Operates from light socket. No batteries.

Set instrument anywhere... plug in and play!

Antenna-plate brings in nearby broadcasts without any aerial. Complete with tubes, $250. List price. With electric motor, $35 extra.

WHAT! A Victrola and a Radiola and a cabinet and a built-in speaker—at almost the price of the radio alone? Believe it or not, here is an opportunity that never existed before. Only the combined resources of the Victor Talking Machine Co. and the Radio Corporation of America could have made such outstanding value possible. Look—

A genuine, full-size, all-electric Radiola, with cabinet and built-in speaker... next season's model!... Radiola 18, a refinement of the famous Radiola 17. A new model Victrola, with Orthophonic-type Sound-box and four handsome, cloth-bound record-albums. Two wonderful instruments, neatly housed in the same unit, ready to plug in and play!

Think what this same Radiola, with speaker, would cost you if bought separately. In the Victor combination Model Seven-eleven, you get these in a beautiful cabinet, including a Victrola, with the four albums... all for $250 (list price) and all in one compact, convenient unit!

No, it isn't believable. But your Victor dealer will show you. No strings. No catch. It's all true—as true as the tone of both Victrola and Radiola in this remarkable combination. There won't be enough of them to go around, so lose no time in getting to your dealer's. If you know a winner when you see one, here it is. Whether you're in the market or not, hear this instrument by all means. Other Victor models, from $35 to $1550, list price.

ONE MARINE SLAIN AND THREE SHOT IN NICARAGUA

U. S. Force Kills 10 Insurgents and Wounds Three in Encounter Near Wamblan.

By the Associated Press.
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 9.—Marine corps airplanes today were seeking out the position of insurgents who killed one marine and wounded three others in Northern Nicaragua. The marines fired on the insurgents, killing 10 of them and wounding three.

Private Meyer Stengle of Hartford, Conn., was killed. Thomas Paine of Roxbury, Mass.; Russell Schoenberger of South Charleston, West Virginia, and Melvin Mosier of Topeka, Kan., were wounded. They were taken to Puerto Cabezas by plane for medical treatment. It was stated there that they would recover unless complications developed.

The marines were members of a detachment of 50 under Capt. Merritt A. Edson of Burlington, Vt., who were hunting out a band of insurgents in the Coco River region.

They were making their way up the river in boats and sighted the band about 20 miles from Wamblan on Tuesday. The marines opened fire on the insurgents who gathered along the shore and a brisk encounter followed.

It was estimated that more than 100 insurgents were in the band. They were thought to be the main body of the force which had been bombed by marine airplanes on July 24.

Active pursuit of the insurgents was undertaken by planes soon after the encounter. It was the largest number of insurgents that had been killed in many months.

Capt. F. A. Hart, who had spent 20 months with the marine expedition in Nicaragua, said on arrival in Washington this week that Sandino had only 100 men left.

LEAVES $21,000 ESTATE TO YOUTH FOR FOILING HOLDUP

Los Angeles Man's "Stake" Had Been Saved 15 Years Ago on Freight Train.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 9.—A reward of $2000 awaits the man who engaged in a midnight fight on top of a moving freight train 15 years ago to save a friend's hard-earned money. His whereabouts now is unknown.

The Superior Court here yesterday ordered withdrawal of funds from the estate of Edward A. Lanchester to carry on a search for Richard "Dick" O'Neil that the terms of Lanchester's will might be carried out.

Lanchester was the man whose money, earned in the wheat fields was sought by a holdup man.

O'Neil, a youth at the time, by a two-fisted defense saved the "stake," though he lost his own money.

Lanchester, who died recently, bequeathed his entire estate of $21,000 in cash, to O'Neil and ordered that a five-year search be made for him.

"Always The Same" says Pipe-Smoker

Charleston, S. C. February 10, 1927

Larus & Bro. Co., Richmond, Va. Gentlemen:

I've done a lot of pipe smoking. There's hardly a brand or a blend that I haven't tried out at some time or other.

But speaking of smoking tobacco that brings real enjoyment, and never changes, I want to say that there is just one tobacco that gives me real enjoyment in my pipe—Edgeworth. I have used Edgeworth Ready Rubbed and Plug Slice for over five years, in all climates and under all conditions, and I find it always the same. It is always mellow and moist, and its genuine flavor lasts. There is no bite or parch in Edgeworth, and the quality, whether you buy it in small or large quantities, is always perfect. Thanks to the manufacturers for their wonderful product, and I hope that Edgeworth can always be obtained by the undersigned.

America Also Three Places Women's Div

By the Associated Press. AMSTERDAM, Aug. 9.—American aquatic sports championships took all three 100-meter back stroke swim and the women's 400 meter relay, but the classic men's 400-meter free style meter breast stroke.

With Johnny Weissmuller playing water polo instead of defending his championship, the 400-meter title went to Albert Zorilla of Argentina in an upset, while Miss Shrader of Germany carried off the honors in the women's breast stroke event. The American victories were accounted for by George Kojac, the sensational backstroke swimmer; Helen Mearns, diving queen and a great American girl's relay team anchored by Martha Norelius. Records fell in the backstroke, relay and 400 meters.

Kojac, the 100-meter backstroke swimming champion, set a new world record for the event, 1 minute 8.1 seconds.

Walter Lauffer of Chicago finished second, while Miss Shrader of Uniontown, Pa., third, giving the United States a clean sweep in the event.

Kojac and Lauffer, racing in adjacent lanes, Nos. 1 and 2, lashed out like Dutch windmills, in a gale, pulling away from the opposition in the first 50 meters and both finishing at a speed remarkable for backstroke swimmers.

Wyatt, their teammate, after staying a few feet behind Irish of Japan, almost jumped out of the water in a great finish which enabled him to snatch third place away from the Oriental athlete.

The times of the first three finishers were 1:08.1-1:10; and 1:12.

In his 100-meter backstroke championship victory Kojac broke his own world's record set only two days ago. In a heat on Tuesday the New York flash lowered Jimmy House's mark of 1:19.1-1:20 to 1:08.4, only to beat even that today.

GIRL STARS BUT TEAM LOSES IN LEGION TOURNEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Margaret Gibson, 14-year-old second baseman, starred for the Blanford nine, Indiana title holders, in their semi-final game with the Marine Post aggregation of Chicago, but the latter won, 12 to 8, to enter the final of the regional American Legion tournament.

The girl star was at bat four times, drove in two runs with a sacrifice and a single and scored twice. On her other two trips to the plate she walked and struck out. She handled two chances without a bobble.

Detroit defeated the Cleveland Yankees, 10 to 6, in the other semi-final game that was postponed yesterday, but a protest of the Yankees was allowed by tournament officials, and the game was replayed from the fifth inning.

In the replay, the Yankees won, 4 to 2, and will meet the Marine Post team tomorrow in the final.

The protest hinged around the expelling of a Cleveland player after an argument with a fan.

PHILADELPHIA WINS FROM SENATORS, 8-3

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—The Athletics held their ground 4½ games behind the Yankees by defeating the Senators, 8 to 3, here today in the first home game for the Mackins since their triumphal tour of the West. The issue was really decided by Al Simmons' twelfth homer, hit off Garland Braxton in the sixth with the bases mixed. Howard Krimke pitched for the Athletics.

The team met most of the last game, but the Athletics won, 8 to 3.

U. S. Makes Clean Sweep in Olympic Backstroke

America Also Takes Three Places in the Women's Diving Event

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 9.—American aquatic stars in the Olympic water sports championships took all three places today in the men's 100-meter back stroke swim and the women's spring board diving and won the women's 400 meter relay, but were badly distanced in the classic men's 400-meter free style final and the women's 200 meter breast stroke.

With Johnny Weissmuller playing water polo instead of defending his championship, the 400-meter event went to Albert Zorilla of Argentina in an upset, while Miss Struder of Germany carried off the honors in the women's breast stroke event. The American victories were accounted for by George Kojac, the sensational backstroke swimmer; Helen Mesny, diving queen and a great American girl's relay team anchored by Martha Norellus. Records fell in the backstroke, relay and 400 meters.

Kojac, the 100-meter backstroke swimming champion, set a new world record for the event, 1 minute 51.5 seconds.

Walter Laufer of Chicago finished second, 1:53.1, and Al Simmonds of Uniontown, Pa., third, giving the United States a clean sweep in the event.

Kojac and Laufer, racing in adjacent lanes, Nos. 1 and 2, lashed out like Dutch windmills in a gale, pulling away from the opposition in the first 50 meters and both finishing at a speed remarkable for backstroke swimmers.

Wright, their teammate, after staying a few feet behind Kojac, almost jumped out of the water in a great finish which enabled him to snatch third place away from the Oriental athlete. The times of the first three finishers were 1:58.1, 1:59.1 and 1:59.4.

In his 100-meter backstroke championship victory Kojac broke his own world record set only two days ago. In a heat on Tuesday the New York flash lowered Jimmy Haines' mark of 1:19.1 to 1:19.4, only to beat even that today.

American Girls Win Title.
The American team won the women's 400-meter relay with Britain second and Holland third. By winning, the fair quartet from the United States retained the championship, as the title was won in 1924 by an American team headed by Gertrude Ederle.

The Yankee girls' victory was won in 4 minutes, 47.3 seconds which is 11.5 seconds faster than the former mark set by the U. S. team of four years ago. Behind Holland came South Africa in fourth place with Germany fifth and France sixth.

Break Record Twice.
In its elimination heat earlier in the day the American team lowered the old mark to 4:55.3 only to win the new standard in the final. The winning combination was made up of Adelaide Lambert, New York; Eleanor Garratti, San Rafael, Cal.; Martha Norellus, New York; and Albina Ostapowich, Worcester, Mass.

Holland, which came in third, was disqualified for faulty relay starting and was placed last.

Holland's team which came in only inches behind Britain in third place was cheered heartily but the applause changed to maledictions heaped upon the judges when it was announced the Dutch were disqualified for not making proper relays.

For the final race the American team was strengthened by addition of Martha Norellus and Eleanor Garratti, who were not needed in the earlier heat. Coming in fresh and replacing Josephine McKim and Susan Laird they enabled them to break the record.

GIRL STARS BUT TEAM LOSES IN LEGION TOURNEY
CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Margaret Athol, 14-year-old second baseman, starred for the Blanford nine, Indiana title holders, in their semi-final game with the Marine P. aggregation of Chicago, but the latter won, 12 to 5, to enter the final of the regional American Legion tournament.

The girl star was at bat four times, drove in two runs with a sacrifice and a single and scored twice. On her other two trips to the plate she walked and struck out. She handled two chances without a bobble.

Detroit defeated the Cleveland Yankees, 10 to 6, in the other semi-final game that was postponed from yesterday, but a protest of the Yankees was allowed by tournament officials, and the game was replayed on the fifth night.

In the replay, the Yankees won, 8 to 2, and will meet the Marine P. team tomorrow in the final.

The protest hinged around the expelling of a Cleveland player after an argument with a fan.

The issue was really decided by Al Simmons' fourth homer, hit off Garland Hunter in the sixth with the bases full. Howard Ehmke pitched for the Athletics.

Browns, Idle Today, Open Series in Chicago Tomorrow

THE Browns, idle yesterday, have another open date today before opening a three-game series with the White Sox in Chicago tomorrow afternoon, which will inaugurate the last extended road trip for Dan Howley's team.

After Chicago, the Browns will tackle the Senators, Athletics, Yankees and Red Sox in order before returning home for a brief stand. Following that, two short series are scheduled in Detroit and Cleveland which will bring Howley's men back to Sportsman's Park on Sept. 13, where they will end the season.

DREWES ENTERS SEMIFINALS OF NET TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

Ralph Rice, Chicago star, reached the semi-round by defeating Wayne L. Fuller, 17-year-old Cleveland hope. The score was 6-1, 7-5, 6-4. Results: Men's singles quarterfinal round, George Jennings, Chicago, defeated Robert B. Considine, Washington, D. C., 6-0, 6-4, 6-2. Ralph Rice, Chicago, defeated Wayne C. THREE AMERICAN FIGHTERS WIN AND TWO LOSE

By the Associated Press.
AMSTERDAM, Aug. 9.—John Daley of Waltham, Mass., American bantamweight, fought his way through the quarter-finals in the Olympic championship boxing tournament today, defeating Seles of Hungary by decision.

Harry Devine of Worcester, Mass., the American featherweight representative, also won his quarter-final bout, getting the decision over Vakeva of Finland.

In the first of the evening matches Stephen Holakko, American light heavyweight, eliminated Pascal Buonfiglio, of Argentina, in a bout that went the limit of three rounds for a decision.

Holakko won the second and third rounds of his engagement with Buonfiglio even in the first. The American swarmed all over his rival in the second and floored him with a right to the chin when Buonfiglio was caught off balance. There was very little clinching in the match, both boxing regularly in the ring.

Lieut. Harry Henderson of the United States Navy was eliminated from the competition when he lost a three-round decision to Hermenegildo of Czechoslovakia. Henderson, a middleweight, was considered one of the strongest boxers on the American squad.

The decision against Henderson was unpopular with the 5000 fans in the arena. The American seemed to have won the first and second rounds, with the third in Hermenegildo's favor.

Mallin, British middleweight, gained the semi-finals by winning the decision over Curle of Argentina.

U. S. Heavy Is Kayced.
Disaster again visited the Americans in the first of the heavy-weight eliminations when Sordal of Norway scored one of the infrequent knockouts in the tournament, finishing Alex Kalchitz of New York in a single round. Kalchitz substituted for Royal Elliott, first string heavyweight, who is ill.

After a fine start, Kalchitz was knocked down three times before the referee stepped in with the American helpless on the floor. Kalchitz smashed Sordal's groggy with the first few punches to the jaw.

The Norwegian fought back gamely and dropped Kalchitz to one knee with a body blow the American claimed was foul. The referee refused to allow the claim.

A terrific right to Kalchitz's head cut his jaw badly and a volley of rights and lefts to the head dropped him for a count of four. Twice more Sordal floored the American with rights to the head before further hostilities were called off.

Traynor of Ireland won a decision from Robledo of Argentina in the bantamweight semifinals. The American with rights to the head, before further hostilities were called off.

Devine Scores Knockdown.
The Devine-Vakeva match started slowly with both men sparing cautiously for openings. They clinched but neither was able to do any damage in a sudden flurry of lightning. Devine missed a left to the head and clinched and Vakeva jabbed the American with a weak left to the face. The round was even.

As they came out for the second round both danced for an opening. Vakeva retreated as Devine shot two hard lefts to the jaw, rushing his opponent to the ropes. Devine again drove the Finn to the ropes with hard lefts and rights to the face. Devine chased Vakeva around the ring and the Finn hit the canvas as the round ended. It was Devine's round by a good margin.

In the third round Devine led off with a whirlwind attack to the head but received a hard left right to the face in return. The American then confined himself to boxing cleverly and won easily on points. Daley and Devine thus became semifinalists.

Peralta, Argentine bantamweight, punched his way to a decision over Boireu of France in the quarter-finals of the 120-pound division. Argentina thus landed two men in the semifinals of this class. Landini is the second survivor.

Peralta fought under the handicap of a cut over one eye suffered almost at the start of the match. He forced the fighting gamely, however, and started the Frenchman's nose bleeding in the second session. Peralta had a decisive lead on points at the close of the match.

South Americans continued to pile up victories in the bouts. Avendano, another Argentine, winning his quarter-final bout in the light-heavyweight division from Arrick of Canada, by decision.

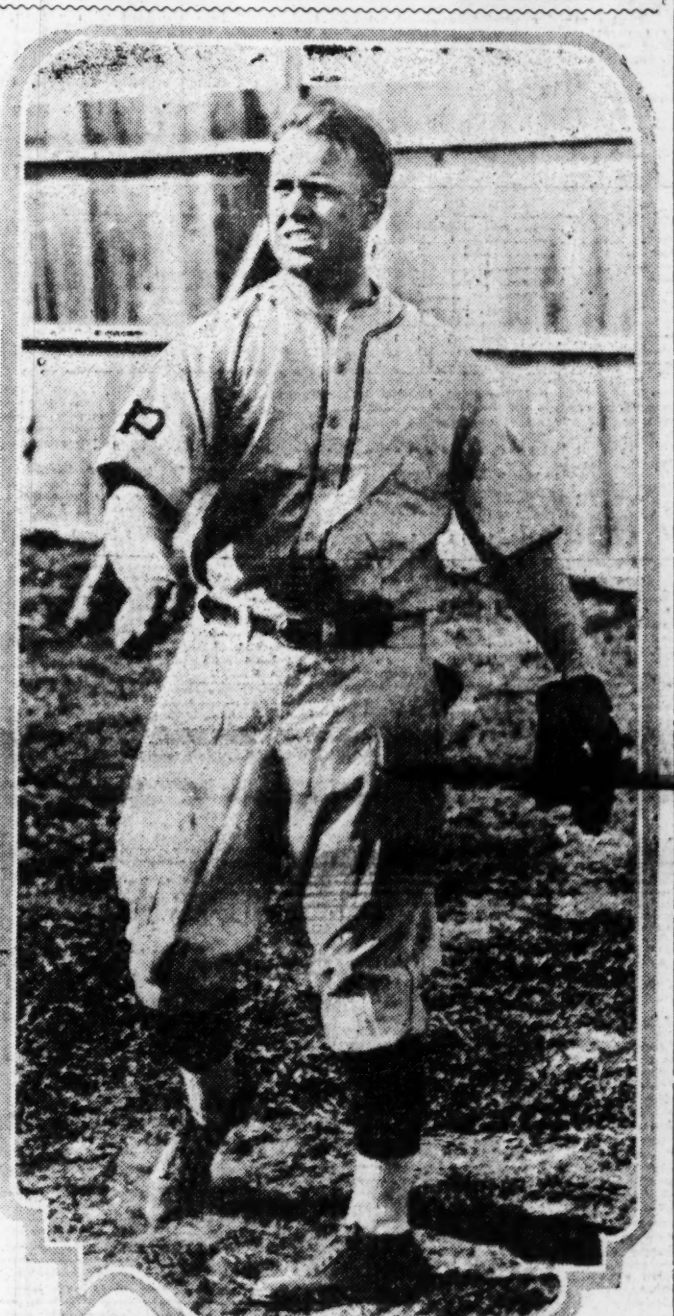

Avendano won the second and third rounds decisively after holding Arrick even in the first.

Cavonil of Italy won by decision from Gaona of Mexico in the quarter-finals of the flyweight class.

In the welterweight quarter finals, Landini, Argentina, won from Bloomers, Holland, by decision.

Rodriguez of Argentina reached the semi-final round in the heavy-weight competition by defeating Oly of Holland in a three-round decision bout.

American Double Scullers Reach the Olympic Final

By the Associated Press.
SLOVEN, Holland, Aug. 9.—Victory for the United States double scullers today in the last of the semifinal races of the Olympic regatta found the Americans leading all other countries with four boatloads or oarsmen in the finals to be rowed tomorrow. United States entries have been eliminated in only three of the seven classes.

England has one second best, vs. Italy.

Charles McIlvaine and Paul Costello, American double scullers, beat the Austrians, Losert and Fiesl, by two lengths in the semifinals this morning.

The Americans' time was 7 minutes 2.5 seconds. They will meet Canada in the finals tomorrow.

The Swiss four-oared shell with coxswain beat Poland by three lengths in 7:14.2.5 and entered the finals against Italy.

LEAD OVER GIANTS CUT TO 4 GAMES BY THIRD STRAIGHT LOSS

In the 200-meter breast-stroke championship for women which Miss Schrader of Germany won in 12:35.5 seconds, the best of the United States could get was a fifth place, won by Gertrude Hoffman of Kingston, Pa. win by two meters from Charlton who was one meter ahead of Borg. Charlton and Borg had been heavy favorites to win.

Crabbe Finishes Strong.

The three Americans, Crabbe, Clapp and Ruddy, were never out-classed although they finished in the rear guard. Clapp was third after 100 meters and Crabbe showed in the same position at 200 meters, on practically even terms with Zorilla and Charlton. The effort Clapp made this morning in competing in the 800 meter relay, however, appeared to tell on him and he did not have the stuff to stick with the graceful Argentine and the powerfully built Australian. Crabbe was overhauling Borg rapidly at the finish and was only four-fifths of a second behind the weakening Swede. Ruddy found the company a bit too fast for him.

DIXIE CHAMPION, 18, WILL SEEK NATIONAL TENNIS HONORS

By the Associated Press. ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 7.—Bryan Grant, 18-year-old Atlantan, who recently successfully defended his Southern tennis title, will try for national honors when the annual tournament is held at Forest Hills, N. Y., late this summer.

The youngster decided to enter the national following his success in Louisville, Ky., where he won the Dixie event by marching through a half dozen opponents in straight sets.

Although very small in both stature and weight—resembling little Bill Johnson somewhat—he has always displayed great skill in making placements, lobbing, passing and roving the court.

His followers believe he will demonstrate future Davis Cup team caliber when he plays at Forest Hills.

Grant, the son of a former Southern champion, was taught the game by his father.

LINDSTROM GETS MANY VOTES IN BABE RUTH'S ALL-AMERICA CONTEST

NEW YORK STAR HAVING ONE OF HIS BEST YEARS AT THIRD BASE

Post-Dispatch readers, looking over the list of eligibles for the third base job on Babe Ruth's all-America team, have a hard time passing up the name of Freddie Lindstrom of the Giants.

This young "veteran" of five major league seasons, is having one of his best years and is giving serious competition to "Pie" Traynor of the Pirates, Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics, Frank O'Rourke of the Browns, Willie Kamm of the White Sox, and others.

The fact that the contestants like Lindstrom's chances of being picked by Babe Ruth doesn't mean that Ruth is going to pick him but a glance at Lindstrom's record for the year reveals a lot of things in his favor.

In Tuesday's game with the Cards, Lindstrom gave a striking demonstration of his punch by driving in five runs, one of his best being a triple with the bases full. He attended school at Loyola University in Chicago and after spending two years with Toledo in the American Association, landed with the Giants in 1924. Here he played as utility infielder and when the Giants won the pennant that year, played third base throughout the world series, batting .333 and fielding perfectly. At the time he was only 15 years of age. This past history, published merely as a matter of interest, has no bearing on the present contest since 1928 records are all that count. If Lindstrom is picked by Babe Ruth, it will be on his performance this year.

Among those who fancy Lindstrom is Emanuel Frank, 2029 East Grand boulevard. His selection:

Bottomley, Cardinals, first base.
Hornsbey, Boston, second base.
J. Sewell, Indians, shortstop.
Lindstrom, Giants, third base.
Mannish, Browns, left field.
Simmons, Athletics, center field.
Hafey, Cardinals, right field.
Cochrane, Athletics, catcher.
Benton, Giants, pitcher.
Hoyt, Yankees, pitcher.

Still another is Andy Jordan, 150 South Main, Decatur, Ill., who submits this team:

Bottomley, Cardinals, first base.
Hornsbey, Braves, second base.
Jackson, Giants, shortstop.
Lindstrom, Giants, third base.
Simmons, Athletics, left field.
Douthitt, Cardinals, center field.

P. Waner, Pirates, right field.
Cochrane, Athletics, catcher.
Benton, Giants, pitcher.
Grimes, Pirates, pitcher.
Louis F. Rasmussen, 3520 Junata street, sends in the following selection:

Bottomley, Cardinals, first base.

Lindstrom, Giants, third base.
Simmons, Athletics, left field.

Tunney's Own Story of His Last and Greatest Fight

Right Hook to Heeney's Eye Was Turning Point, Says Gene

ARTICLE NO. 7.

By Gene Tunney,

Retired World's Heavyweight Champion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.

THE turning point in my match with Tom Heeney came in the seventh round when a sharp right hook opened up a cut over the challenger's left eye and temporarily paralyzed the optic nerve.

The punch landed as Heeney stepped into me from the ropes, still falling a victim of the strategy I explained earlier. I had feinted him into rushing by stepping around quickly as though worried and undecided as to what sort of move came next. He rushed in and as he did I hooked my right to the head. It landed above the left eye.

For the moment Tom appeared blinded as blood started to trickle down his cheek. He rubbed the eye with his glove as though there were something in it irritating him. He shook his shaggy head and stepped back, unable to think clearly, the pain was so great.

Tunney Is Frightened.

TOM'S actions frightened me. My first thought, as I saw him blink and rub his eye without being able to control the lid, was: "I've blinded him!"

Through my mind flashed a story I heard not long ago from the lips of Al Demont, an old-time fighter, telling how one man was blinded in the ring by just such a punch. This story I heard related how the fighter's eye had pained at the time and his opponent, seeing the trouble he was in, smashed both hands again and again to the damaged optic. The boxer reeled around the ring, took the punishment until the bell rang and then went to his corner.

In between rounds this fighter asked his seconds to open his eye, which he thought was closed tight, so that he could see to face his opponent again. The seconds stared at him in amazement.

Still another in Andy Jordan, 150 South Main, Decatur, Ill., who submits this team:

Bottomley, Cardinals, first base.
Hornsbey, Braves, second base.

opponent, who was fighting one of the cleanest matches in the history of the ring, to be careful of blows to the head. Never once did I attempt to strike the eye that was staring at me like a glass ball or to hit him, for that matter, anywhere that he had been cut about the head.

Shot to Vital Spots.

I TRIED only to land in vital spots. Most of my punches were directed under the heart and to the body. What blows I did shoot to Heeney's head landed cleanly upon his jaw. I had not wish to be the cause of a man going blind in the ring, especially in the last match of my career.

At no time during that round did I see Heeney's eye lash curl under. As Tom thought it did, so that the lashes laid back upon the eyeball and irritated him almost to distraction. To my mind that feeling was caused entirely by the paralysis of the optic nerve. To Tom it must have seemed as though a half-dozen things had got under the lashes.

Rules Governing Babe Ruth All-America Team Contest

THE contest is open now to all readers of the Post-Dispatch. It will close on Aug. 31 at midnight. Entries bearing postmarks of that or prior dates will be considered eligible.

To select an all-star team from among the outstanding players of the National and American Leagues, with a view to having it coincide with one which Babe Ruth, aided by a committee of sports writers, will select, is the chief object of the contest. And the judges will also be guided in the awarding of trophies by the clearness of the short explanation must accompany each entry. This little essay, telling the reasons for the selection, is essential and must not exceed 200 words. Lack of an explanation will invalidate an entry.

Ten players will make up the team, two pitchers and eight other players, one for each position. Only one team may be submitted by each contestant.

No corrections will be accepted once an entry has been received and filed. Take your time and make your selection final.

Babe Ruth is not eligible. He will not pick himself.

Players must be selected on the basis of their play in the 1928 season only. Performances of previous years do not count. A player must be placed in a position other than the one he regularly occupies, provided he has occupied such position in one or more championship games. Otherwise regular positions must be rigidly adhered to. For instance, a regular left fielder may not be placed in right field, unless he has played there at least once in 1928.

The trophies will be $100 cash for first, $50 for second and $25 for third. The winner of the capital trophy will also receive a hat autographed by Babe Ruth, and an autographed league ball.

Read the rules thoroughly and take some care in the preparation of your entry.

Sekyra Is Victor Over Braddock

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Joe Sekyra of Dayton was awarded the decision over James J. Braddock at Ebbetts Field last night in the first of Jack Fugazy's no ringside seat shows. Braddock was overmatched, Sekyra having all of 10 pounds advantage. The smaller man could not do himself justice against such odds. Joe came in at 177½ and Braddock at 168.

Sekyra weighed in at 177½ yesterday afternoon at weighing time. Braddock's manager demanded that Joe run around the block and take off 2½ pounds, the agreed notch. This Sekyra refused to do.

Then, when the match seemed off, Joe tried weight reducing. He came back to the scales weighing 177½ this time. Then a compromise was effected and the bout was on.

Braddock seemed to feel Sekyra's weight while they were in action. He kept his right poised for a finisher, but found Sekyra an elusive bird. Sekyra cut Braddock's left eye in the seventh round and he picked at the damaged optic for the remainder of the round. Joe opened another cut over the same eye in the final round.

McKenna Beats Zink.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 8.—Jack McKenna of Montreal, a middleweight, defeated Joe Zink of Syracuse, N. Y., in a 10-round bout here last night. Zink knocked McKenna down in the first round. McKenna came back in the second and floored Zink and had the better of the fighting from then on.

WILMINGTON WINS NO. 10 CHAMPIONSHIP OF ELIMINATION TOURNEY

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9.—Wilmington (Del.) host of the American League won the No. 10 baseball championship today by defeating Williamsport, Pa., 12 to 11, in the final game of the elimination tournament held here. The pitching of Rembeck, who eliminated Baltimore yesterday and struck out eight men after being rushed into today's game, relieving Roberts in the second inning, contributed mainly to Wilmington's victory.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The heavyweight championship trials of two leading foreign contenders will cross tonight when Otto Von Porat of Norway and Pierre Charles of Belgium clash in a 10-round bout to a decision.

Although the Belgian champion has a better record to show for his American invasion than the Norwegian, Von Porat is a slight favorite.

The victor will seek consideration in the heavyweight elimination bouts for a successor to Gene Tunney's title.

Von Porat is a harder puncher than the Belgian, who, in turn, is a better boxer. Charles has a decision over Napoleon Jack Dorval of New York, who won a referee's decision over Von Porat here last winter.

Haakon Hansen, the Norwegian middleweight, and Floyd Hybert of Cleveland will meet in a six-round semi-windup.

COLLET PROMISES SUPPORT TO C. M. HAY

Victor in Senatorial Race Gets Message of Congratulation
From Franklin Roosevelt.

Concessions of defeat and pledges of support in the general election campaign designed to heal any primary campaign wounds are being received by the successful candidates from their opponents in the primary, with the customary appeals for party harmony.

James A. Collet of Salisbury, who, aided by Senator Reed, waged a vigorous fight against Charles M. Hay of St. Louis for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, has conceded his defeat and pledged his support to Hay.

"Incomplete returns seem to assure your nomination," Collet wired Hay. "My party's choice is my choice, and you will have my loyal support in the November election."

Reed, who bitterly fought Hay, so far has declined to comment upon Hay's success.

Message for Roosevelt.
Hay has received many messages of congratulations among them telegrams from Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, who put Gov. Smith in nomination at the Democratic convention in Houston, and from Francis M. Wilson of Kansas City, Democratic nominee for Governor.

"I am greatly pleased to learn of your nomination and trust that you and the whole ticket will be successful in November," Roosevelt stated.

Hay, an avowed dry, frankly said in his campaign that he differed with Gov. Smith on the prohibition issue, but that he agreed with him on other important points, and he urged Democrats to unite in support of Smith in November.

Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis, who won the Republican nomination for Governor by a plurality of approximately 60,000, has received congratulations from Lieutenant Governor Phil A. Bennett of Springfield, the runner-up, and W. R. Schneider of St. Louis, who was in a close race for third in a field of five.

Bennett sent congratulations to Caulfield and pledged his active support in the campaign.

Schneider wrote a letter congratulating Caulfield on "your overwhelming majority," and said "I assure you of my whole-hearted support at the general election."

Schneider Expected Defeat.
Schneider, who was running upon a platform of budgetary government and reform in the organization of State departments, said he realized months ago he would be defeated, in the face of the support of Caulfield by the State administration and of other organization backing. The administration opposed Schneider because of his proposed reforms. He said he remained in the race to direct public attention to the present system and the need of a change.

"If our efforts in this regard will ultimately result in better financial support for our public school system and our State university," Schneider wrote, "will result in the adoption of a State budget system, and will result in the prevention of further malfeasance in office of the type to which we have directed attention, then we will consider our campaign a big success and will not regret the sacrifices we have made."

Schneider said he could not speak for his organization, not having conferred with his followers since the election.

"I am mindful, however, that in the latter part of your campaign you adopted our above outlined program and pledged yourself to its fulfillment," Schneider wrote. "This being true, I assure you of my whole-hearted support at the general election."

State Senator A. L. McCawley of Carthage, defeated by Francis M. Wilson for the Democratic nomination for Governor, telegraphed Wilson, "please accept my hearty congratulations upon your nomination and feel free to command me for any service in your behalf, or in behalf of the ticket."

In a separate statement McCawley said he had made the best fight he could, without organization backing, and said he had conducted his campaign in such a manner that he could support his opponent without embarrassment.

BANCITALY EMPLOYE WELD ON $496,655 THEFT CHARGE
Cornelius Callahan, Assistant Secretary, Traced to Montreal and Arrested Following Indictment.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Cornelius Callahan, 28 years old, assistant secretary of the Bancitaly Corporation, from which he is alleged to have stolen $496,655, is under arrest in Montreal, Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings said he had been informed.

Hastings said that the money alleged to have been stolen by Callahan had been traced to Wall street brokerage houses, where Callahan is said to have speculated.

Callahan was indicted yesterday by a New York grand jury, charged specifically with the theft of $21,600 from the corporation.

Callahan had recently filled the post of transfer clerk, empowered to accept customers' orders for stocks and to issue certificates. He used this position between April 21 and May 8, officials said, to convert nearly $500,000 to his own use.

GOV. SMITH GOING TO CHICAGO FOR BRENNAN FUNERAL

New Yorker and His Party Leave Albany Tonight—
Will Be in Illinois City
Three Hours.

HE WILL RETURN
EAST IMMEDIATELY

Democratic Nominee Hopes to Be Able to Take a Few Days' Rest Before Plunging Into Campaign.

By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Accompanied by his son, Arthur, two military aides and three close friends, including Mayor Hague of Jersey City, Gov. Smith will go to Chicago tonight to attend the funeral of George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader. He plans to remain in Chicago three hours, leaving there early tomorrow afternoon on the return trip to Albany. A special car will be made a part of the first section of the Twentieth Century Limited leaving Albany this evening, arriving in Chicago at 10:45 a. m. tomorrow. The Governor's party will leave Chicago tomorrow on the east-bound Century.

In addition to William F. Kenney, Mayor Hague, who is the Democratic National Committeeman from New Jersey and his son, the Governor will be accompanied by his personal friend, James J. Riordan of New York, and Adjutant-General Franklin W. Ward and Col. Charles E. Walsh of the Tenth New York Infantry.

The Governor decided to drop work on his acceptance speech to be present at the funeral of the Illinois Democratic leader, who in recent years had been one of Smith's staunch supporters.

After he gets his acceptance speech rounded into form, decides what he will do about William Allen White's charges against his legislative record, and makes sure that his proposed debate on his political career with the Rev. John Bosch Straton is set, the nominee hopes to get away from Albany for a few days' rest and recreation before his departure here August 10. After that he also plans to get in a short vacation before launching into his speaking campaign which probably will keep him on the move from early September until election day.

Simple Funeral Services Tomorrow for Brennan in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—A simple funeral will be conducted tomorrow for George E. Brennan, Democratic National Committeeman from Illinois.

A private service at the home and services at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church have been planned immediately following his death. Yesterday the family requested that there be no floral tributes.

Fallbearers have been chosen from among the men with whom Mr. Brennan was closely associated in politics and business. Two of the pallbearers, Daniel Gilbert and Richard P. Gill, are police captains who were close friends. Two others, George Fitzgerald and John Sullivan, are cousins. Michael Igoe and Fred C. Hachtel, the other pallbearers, were closely allied with Brennan in politics or business.

It is Igoe whose name has been most frequently mentioned in all discussions concerning a successor to the leadership of Illinois Democrats. Igoe, minority leader in the lower house of the State Assembly, has been a consistent supporter of Brennan's policies. He is one man, according to many party leaders, whose leadership would draw Carr back into the Cook County fold.

There was some sentiment favoring a plan by which the duties of the party in Illinois would be directed by a group rather than an individual. Floyd Thompson, Democratic candidate for Governor, in praising the work of Brennan, added that the Democratic in Illinois "is not a one-man party," and that the State and National campaign would continue to be conducted as already planned.

Gov. Smith of New York, a close friend of Brennan, called the Brennan home by telephone from Albany yesterday to express his condolences to the widow. Brennan had been one of the most active workers behind the scenes in sponsoring Gov. Smith's nomination for President.

Honorary pallbearers named for Mr. Brennan include names of men known in finance, politics and industry throughout the country. Republicans and Democrats alike, among them were Vice President Raskob.

PART THREE.

GOV. SMITH GOING TO CHICAGO FOR BRENNAN FUNERAL

New Yorker and His Party Leave Albany Tonight—Will Be in Illinois City Three Hours.

HE WILL RETURN EAST IMMEDIATELY

Democratic Nominee Hopes to Be Able to Take a Few Days' Rest Before Plunging Into Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Accompanied by his son, Arthur, two military aids and three close friends, including Mayor Hague of Jersey City, Gov. Smith will go to Chicago tonight to attend the funeral of George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader. He plans to remain in Chicago three hours leaving there early tomorrow afternoon on the return trip to Albany. A special car will be made up as part of the first section of the Twentieth Century Limited leaving Albany this evening, arriving in Chicago at 10:45 a. m. tomorrow. The Governor's party will leave Chicago tomorrow on the east-bound Century.

In addition to William F. Kenney, Mayor Hague, who is the Democratic National Committee man from New Jersey and his son, the Governor will be accompanied by his personal friend, James J. Flanagan of New York, and Adj. Gen. Charles E. Walsh of the New York Infantry.

The Governor decided to drop out of his acceptance speech to be present at the funeral of the Illinois Democratic leader, who in recent years had been one of Smith's staunch supporters.

After he gets his acceptance speech rounded into form, decided that he will do so at William Allen White's charges against his legislative record, and makes sure that his proposed debate on his political career with the Rev. John J. Raskob is set, the nominee hopes to get away from Albany for a few days' rest and recreation before his notification here Aug. 10.

After that he also plans to get in a short vacation before launching into his speaking campaign which probably will keep him on the move from early September until election day.

Simple Funeral Services Tomorrow for Brennan in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—A simple funeral will be conducted tomorrow for George E. Brennan, Democratic National Committee man from Illinois.

A private service at the home and services at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church have been planned immediately following his death. Yesterday the family requested that there be no floral tributes.

Pallbearers have been chosen from among the men with whom Brennan was closely associated in politics and business. Two of the pallbearers, Daniel Gilbert and Richard P. Gill, are police captains who were close friends. Two others, George Fitzgerald and John Sullivan, are cousins. Michael L. Igoe and Fred C. Hachtel, the other two pallbearers, were closely allied with Brennan in politics or business.

Mr. Igoe whose name has been most frequently mentioned in all discussions concerning a successor to the leadership of Illinois Democrats, Igoe, minority leader in the lower house of the State Assembly, has been a consistent supporter of Brennan's policies. He is one man, according to many party leaders, whose leadership would draw Carr and Harrison, former Mayor, back into the Cook County fold.

There was some sentiment favoring a plan by which the decision of the party in Illinois would be directed by a group rather than by an individual. Floyd Thompson, Democratic candidate for Governor, in praising the work of Brennan, added that Democracy in Illinois "is not a one-man party," and that the State and National campaigns would continue to be conducted as already planned.

Gov. Smith of New York, a close friend of Brennan, called the Brennan home by telephone from Albany yesterday to express his condolences to the widow. Brennan had been one of the most active workers behind the scenes in spending Gov. Smith's nomination for President.

Honorary pallbearers named for Brennan include names of men known in finance, politics and industry throughout the country. Republicans and Democrats alike, among them were Vice President

"ROUND-THE-WORLD" BETTY GETS FOUR WEEKS IN JAIL

Found Guilty in Southampton, England, of Stowing Away on the Aquitania.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 9.—A stowaway trip to Europe aboard the steamship Aquitania is going to cost Miss Betty Simpson, 25 years old of Ada, Ok., four weeks in the jail at Winchester. Accused of stowing away at least three times previously, she was arrested on behalf of representatives of the Cunard line, who declared that her story of finding herself on the liner at sea after taking a few drinks and losing consciousness was false.

Miss Simpson pleaded that she met two young men on the pier in New York and at their invitation went aboard to have a drink. She had six drinks and remembered nothing more until she recovered consciousness the next day on the boat deck with the ship at sea. But she had a parcel containing a change of clothing and also a number of picture post cards describing herself as "Betty Simpson, all around the world." During the voyage, the Cunard representative said, she tried to sell these post cards to the passengers.

The Magistrate in imposing sentence remarked: "We are going to stop her little escapade."

MILLIONS IN SUNKEN TREASURE ON SHIP DROWNED TO $72.94

Search Being Made for Diamonds on Torpedoed Vessel After None Are Found in Safe.

By the Associated Press.

LORIENT, France, Aug. 9.—A "sunken treasure of millions" in diamonds, sought by divers in the bulk of the Belgian steamer Elizabeth, sunk during the war, thus far has yielded $72.94 in Belgian paper francs and four English gold sovereigns ($19.44).

A safe lifted from the torpedoed steamer after much arduous labor was opened with great solemnity for registered mail bags, but thus far no further discoveries have been made. Another strongbox is being sought. The captain of the boat is dead and no one knows where he hid the stones.

The company seeking the jewels had feared the diamonds might not be found in the safe, and already have begun a search for registered mail bags, but thus far no further discoveries have been made. Another strongbox is being sought. The captain of the boat is dead and no one knows where he hid the stones.

RASKOB QUILTS AS MEMBER OF COMMITTEE OF MO. PAC.

Also Resigns From Gulf Coast, Texas & Pacific and D. & R. G. Railroads.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—John J. Raskob, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has resigned from the executive committee of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, the Texas & Pacific Railroad and a member of the special committee appointed to plan a dividend policy for the system, but he remains his post as a director of the road. He also has resigned as a director of the Gulf Coast Lines, the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad. The resignations are understood to have been offered before Raskob's recent European trip.

Finley J. Shepard, vice president of the Missouri Pacific and Arthur W. Loasby, president of the Equitable Trust Co. of New York, have been elected directors of the Denver & Rio Grande, succeeding Raskob and the late Alvin L. Kreech, who headed the Equitable Trust.

15 NUNS HELD IN OREGON MURDER ORDERED RELEASED

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 9.—Prosecuting Attorney Juan Corona Nolasco ordered the release of 15 nuns who had been arrested at the same time as the Mother Superior Concepcion Acevedo De La Llaia in connection with the assassination of President-Elect Alvaro Obregon. The nuns had been held on the charge of violating the religious law by leading the convent life under Sister Concepcion.

The Mother Superior, however, was still held in jail charged with being an accomplice to the murder.

Flyers' Insurance Rate Fixed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Because of their dangerous vocations, aviator members of the Naval Mutual Aid Association have been ordered by Secretary Wilbur to pay a premium of $24 a year on the $7500 insurance benefits carried by each in the organization. The premium was decided on after a study of the deaths of members in the last three years. In this period 27 aviator members were killed. Eighty-five per cent of $50 annual pilots and observers belong to the association.

DEMOCRATS MUST LOOK TOWARD G.O.P. VOTE TO WIN STATE

Prohibition Issue Will Not Down and, in Country Particularly, Will Cause Many Defections.

REED'S ATTITUDE MAY BE A FACTOR

Innocuous Law Enforcement Plank Likely to Be Adopted at State Platform Session Next Month.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

With the opening within the next few days of Democratic regional headquarters at Hotel Jefferson, in charge of Senator Hawes, the Democrats are entering upon a campaign of the central group of states with an admittedly hard fight ahead of them.

However ingenious the efforts of harmonizers and pacifiers, there is seemingly not a possibility of side-tracking prohibition influence as the leading campaign, and, in Missouri at least, the results of the primary Tuesday tend to show that with this as the fighting point many difficulties are to be encountered.

It would seem that the hope for Democratic success in this State lay in a wet campaign for Smith, and when that is made the party will encounter the extremely dry Charles M. Hay as its candidate for United States Senator, heading the State ticket, and with Francis M. Wilson, its candidate for Governor, seeking merely the ground, not too wet nor too dry, on which to make his stand.

Defections Expected.

With Smith heading the national ticket, and heading it as a straight-out wet candidate, many thousands of Democrats, particularly women, in the rural sections of Missouri will not vote for him.

Any attempt to fix the number even approximately is out of the question at this time, but to know that this condition exists within the party is a matter of fact. A few of the counties in the State. These voters are influenced by two considerations—one, that they will not vote for a wet; the other, that they will not vote for a Catholic. The question of religion is not talked of openly, but it is talked of quietly.

Whether these voters will remain away from the polls, whether they will not vote at all on the presidential or whether they will vote for Hoover is undeterminable now. Hay's candidacy undoubtedly will bring to the polls a very considerable number of them who would be disposed to remain at home if Hay were not on the ticket, but it is by no means certain that they will get them to vote for the wet candidates.

Hay Will Fight for Smith.

That Hay will exert his best efforts to line up his entire following to vote the straight Democratic ticket cannot be doubted. He has a record for party regularity, and in a hundred or more speeches throughout the State in the primary campaign he has urged support for Smith.

"If Smith looks too wet for you," he has said, "just remember that I am dry enough for you, and if I look too dry, just remember that Smith is wet enough for you, and stuff your straight ticket into the ballot box."

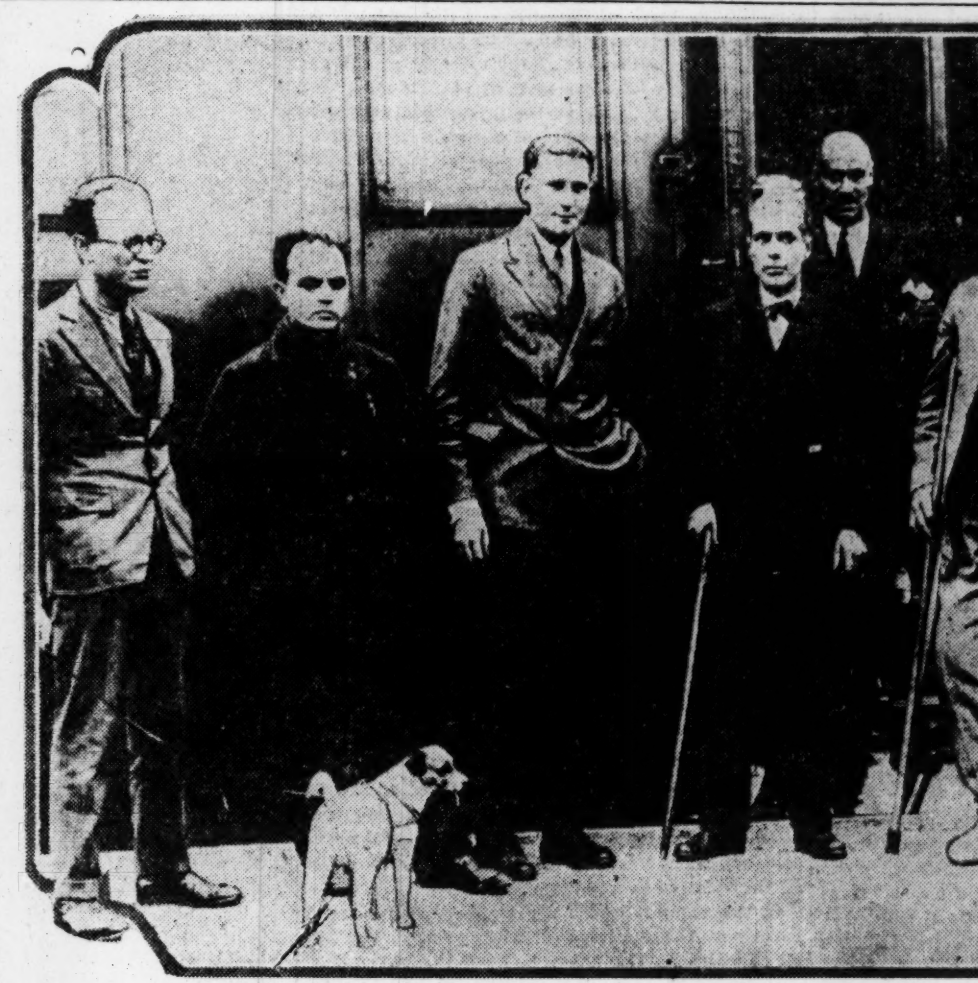

With this defection of the drys, the Democrats must look to wet Republican votes to carry the State. The primary would indicate that they will get them in large numbers. Nathan Franz, vote of nearly 100,000 can be counted in general terms as a vote which was controlled by a belief that the most important public question was a change in the eighteenth amendment. While of course much of it was by Republican voters who would not abandon their party ticket on any consideration, yet it provides a fertile field for Democratic proselyting.

Dry Candidates' Majority 59,402.

The primary races for nomination for United States Senator by the Missouri State Convention, speculation as to what the outcome of a wet and dry fight would be in Missouri, either on a submission of that question or on candidates such as those of Smith and Hay. While it may be that the hope of the Democrats in the State is to make a wet fight for Smith the figures show that the combined Republican and Democratic vote was 59,402 to 4.

On the primary returns from about 80 precincts of the precincts the total vote of four dry candidates, one Democrat and three Republicans, was 54,920, while the total vote of the five wet candidates, two Democrats and three Republicans, was 235,558, or $2,402. This difference, unquestionably, will be increased by the returns from the precincts yet to report, as complete returns are Major Idzikowski Describes Consternation When Oil Line Leak Was Found Over Mid-Atlantic, Forcing Return.

By MAJOR LOUIS IDZIKOWSKI, Commander of the Airplane Marshal Pilsudski on Its Attempted Trans-Atlantic Flight.

(Copyright, 1928.)

OPORTO, Portugal, Aug. 9.—Our decision to start our trans-Atlantic flight was made about noon Thursday (Aug. 2), when we got favorable weather reports. These indicated we would have a northwest wind as far as the Azores and from that time on a side wind. In addition, over the whole course we planned to follow there was a high pressure area.

Our preparations went forward hastily. In the evening of that day came further word from the meteorological bureau affirming the earlier reports and that the atmospheric conditions were better than any since we had begun waiting for a proper time to start, or at least for the past two months. Incidentally the forecast on which we based our decision to start was excellent that at the time we were forced to alight we still had fuel for 32 hours of flying.

That afternoon and night we stult, every connection, everything which was to bear a strain was tested and found in perfect order. We put aboard 6200 liters of benzine (about 1700 gallons) and 220 liters of oil (about 55 gallons).

Final Tests for Motor.

Our Loreine-Dietrich motor was tested, final adjustments were made, and it was adjudged by us and by mechanics to be in condition to carry the plane as long as there was fuel and oil. It has 650 horsepower.

There never was in our minds a thought that our plane could fail. We had flown it 150 hours and we had made one endurance test of 32 hours. Not a defect in construction or operation did we discover this time. At the field helping us prepare were M. Amiot, who built the plane, and his staff. For their glory and our safety they spared no expense in making it airworthy.

For safety in case of mishap we had valves for dumping the fuel in a few seconds and a rubber boat which we could leave the plane if it failed to float. The tanks emptied of benzine were relied upon to give the machine considerable buoyancy.

Our other equipment included a Marell magnetic compass, a drift indicator, an earth inductor compass and an improved sextant, made by Fave Le Petite. We had about three gallons of water, two chickens, some biscuits and some coffee.

At 11 o'clock that night our preparations were complete. We went to bed and were awakened at 3 in the morning.

Crowd on the Field.

When we went to the field to start we found a crowd, including many of our friends, gathered under an overcast sky. The wind was from the side and we could not use it long on the take-off. For this reason our run on the ground was rather long—700 meters (2275 feet). When we finally left the ground the plane acted beautifully. It rose rapidly, clearing its head from the waves that we still had a hind behind us. Air conditions were so favorable that we were able to reduce the revolutions of our motor and save fuel without lessening the speed of the plane. But this soon changed, for half an hour from L'Orient we ran into a mountain of fog.

Fog Was Very Thick.

This fog was so thick we could see nothing ahead, above or below us. Going down slowly, we found that it ended about 20 meters (65 feet) above the sea and left a clear path. But we were too heavily loaded to risk flying that low. A sudden air current might have thrown us to the water to crack up and sink immediately.

We climbed and traveled what path there was between the fog and the clouds. This was about 300 meters (925 feet). Our plane rode smoothly, but because of the clouds and fog we could take no observations whatever.

At about 9 o'clock that morning I reduced the revolutions of the motor another 100 per cent. We were making a fine saving of fuel. Two hours of this and the clouds thinned and the fog lifted. The sun came out and the wind was refreshing. We immediately made observations and learned that we were 50 kilometers (31.3 miles) off our course, taken there by the brisk north wind. The waves began breaking, indicating the wind was increasing. The air became so clear that we could easily see 50 kilometers.

Going lower, we found that flying at 50 meters above the water was not tiresome and there we stayed. At this low altitude the air was as smooth as a highway and of an even temperature, whether we were in the sun or an occasional slight mist, because it was so close to the water.

We continued on this course until 5:30 o'clock that evening, when Kubala indicated a new course due west.

This was to be kept along the forty-first degree until we crossed the steamship lanes. Following it would cost 100 miles from our projected flight over the Azores.

By 7:30 o'clock we were in line with the Azores. We had been flying 15 hours and everything appeared to be working for us better than we had hoped.

Half an hour later, at 8 o'clock, the fog and clouds returned. The wind was high at the upper altitudes and we flew through the fog near the water in order to avoid it.

It was at 1:30 o'clock when Kubala went to the bottom of the ship to make an observation of our drift from the true course. There, on the floor, he found oil. It shouted to me about his discovery. A few minutes after this my instruments told me of a lessening oil pressure. I turned to Kubala and asked, "What shall we do now? Where shall we fly, onward or back?"

We did not want to turn back, but both of us knew we would have to do so. Thought had to control us rather than ambition, hard as that was. In the decision we reached there were also considerations by Kubala of wind velocity and direction and the possibility of reaching help.

The Western Hemisphere was too far away—1100 miles. The wind was southwest, and slightly retarding us and there was fog ahead, in all probability. In addition there were no ship lanes ahead. The Azores were the nearest land, but the stars were obscured and we could not take observations to make sure of reaching the islands.

Wind Against Them.

On the way to the Azores we knew we might easily miss the islands and that, even if we did find them that it would be very difficult to land.

We realized that we must as soon as possible reach the western winds north of the Azores, so Kubala laid our course toward the northwest. We felt sure we would find the western winds due to low pressure north of the islands, and using them we could head over steamship lanes for the coast of Spain.

It will not be hard to understand how heavy were our hearts when we realized the impossibility of reaching our goal. Most of all we were saddened because we would have to disappoint our Government which had entrusted us with the great undertaking for the glory of Poland.

Then there was the thought that the great hospitable American nation was waiting to welcome us, and that our countrymen there were hoping to receive us with honor. We were filled with regret that we might be deprived of our chance to see the great new world in which we were so interested.

Little Time for Regrets.

But there was little time for regrets. We knew we must choose the straightest route, and avoid every mile of costly deviation from our newly laid-out course.

I concentrated my efforts on pointing out watching the oil pressure gauge, which was steadily moving to the left. Kubala was kept busy with observations to keep us from slipping off our course. Night was fast drawing upon us, but the visibility became better because the sky was clearing.

Our sextant, the new Fave Le Petite type, enabled Kubala to fix our position with the utmost accuracy due west.

This was to be kept along the

JAPAN SENDS NOTE WARNING NANKING AND MANCHURIA

Nationalists Are Threatened With Force If They Do Not Change Attitude Toward Tokio.

PROTEST ON TREATY ABROGATION MADE

Mukden Government Told Not to Permit Chinese to Assume Control Over Its Affairs.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—There are indications of a new crisis in China, for Japan has sent formal warnings to the Governments of Manchuria and Nationalists against acts regarded as inimical to Japan's interests.

To Chang Hsueh-liang, military governor of Manchuria, word went that he must not put the province under the domination of the Nanking Nationalist Government.

A note was sent the Nanking Government stating that, unless the Nationalists change their attitude toward Japan's interests in China, "the Japanese Government may be obliged to take such measures as it deems suitable for safeguarding rights and interests assured by the treaties."

Nanking has already notified Japan of its abrogation of commercial treaties granting extraterritorial rights to Japanese. Japan's claim that this abrogation is illegal has been ignored by Nanking.

Premier Addresses Cabinet.

Premier Tanaka told the cabinet he had reliable information that Chang Hsueh-liang and Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist military commander, had worked out the draft of an agreement to extend the Nationalist rule into Manchuria. It is understood here that the agreement gives Nanking control of Manchurian foreign relations while leaving Manchuria complete autonomy in domestic matters.

Japan fears that without the protection afforded by present treaties its supplies of raw material from Manchuria will be cut off, that that property and lives of its citizens in China will be endangered.

The tentative Nanking-Mukden agreement is also understood to provide that political committees of the Kuomintang, the political organization of the Nanking movement, will be excluded from Manchuria.

Provision of Agreement.

Chang, however, is to accept the three principles of Dr. Sun Yat-sen—Nationalism, Democracy, State Socialism—and the Nationalist flag will be hoisted at Mukden, Chang's capital.

Reports that the Nationalists have canceled all troop movements against Mukden, and that Chang is preparing to withdraw his forces from the Shanhaiwan front strengthened the assumption that agreement was near, if not already consummated.

No official resume of the warning to Chang was available, but it was learned that the advice given to Chang, July 20, was repeated in stronger terms by Baron Consue Hayashi, who was in Mukden as Japan's special envoy to the "funeral" of Chang's father, Chang Tso-lin, once northern dictator.

Chang Warned Before.

On July 20 the Japanese consul-general at Mukden had advised Chang against joining the Nationalists. This was labeled at the time as his personal opinion. Baron Hayashi, however, was the personal envoy of Premier Tanaka. He was to tell Chang that Manchuria must not go under Nationalist sway as long as Nanking persisted in its present attitude regarding abrogation of existing treaties and other international contracts.

The note to the Nanking Government was drawn up as a formal reply to the notice of abrogation given to Japanese officials in China by the Nanking foreign office on July 21.

The Japanese officials at the time declined to accept the notice in any official manner, but communicated it informally to Tokio.

CUSTOMERS' COLLEGE
URGED FOR RETAILERS

New Yorker Declares Purchaser Should Be Taught Value of Wares.

A "college for customers" should be established where the purchaser is taught the value of merchandise like works of art, Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, president of the Institute of Mercantile Art, New York City, declared yesterday before the ninth semiannual convention of the American Retailers' Association at Hotel Statler.

Discussing the psychology of selling, Dr. Krebs said, "We need more heart in business—more heart and more art. Salesmen should treat their wares with loving care. They should convince the customer their article is truly a work of art."

Recalling the days of a dusty Main street with its general store, M. B. Lowman of Nugent's Department Store, told the delegates the merchant of those days had been literally booted aside by "the use of the accelerator of the speeding automobile" to make way for the modern merchant.

Flint Garrison, editor of the Highways to Better Business, other speakers were Alex C. Smith of Chillicothe, Mo., W. Earl Auman of the West Clothing Co., and Alvin E. Dodd of the Wholesale Dry Goods Institute, New York.

Prizes for winners in the membership campaign, which has resulted in the addition of 838 new members since May, will be awarded at the semi-annual banquet, Hotel Statler tonight, after which the delegates will attend the Municipal Opera. A new board of directors will be chosen at the banquet and officers will be elected tomorrow.

A. A. Kuhne of Troy, Mo., will address a meeting of the Optimists' Club at Hotel Statler tomorrow noon on the subject, "Is the Small Independent Retailer Doomed to Die?"

More than 1000 delegates had registered up to last night and a registration of about 500 more is expected by tonight. Several thousand additional merchants who are not members of the association are in the city to do their fall buying, according to Scott R. Dekins, secretary-treasurer. The membership of the organization now exceeds 6000.

The convention will close Saturday.

BOY, 15, LORD OXFORD'S HEIR
Earl Plans to Give His Estate to Cousin.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Earl of Oxford is understood to intend to give his country estate, Wotton Park, near Norwich, to his 15-year-old cousin and heir, Robert Henry Montagu-Walpole, the son of Mrs. Horace Wade-Walpole of Steventon, Herts, and heir to the Baroness of Walpole and Kington.

The Earl, who is in his seventieth year, has taken this unusual step in order to spend without worry over his property a long holiday for his health in New Zealand. He became familiar with New Zealand during his career in the navy. The Earl's first wife was Louise Melissin, a daughter of B. C. Corbin of New York. She died in 1903. Their daughter is Lady Dorothy Mills, an author and traveler. There is no heir to the earldom, but only to the two baronies.

She adds nearly two-thirds of the girls who graduated last June and smoked cigarettes. Twenty-one per cent smoked from five to 20 a day and another 21 per cent smoked from one to four a day. The rest were occasional smokers.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. SOPHISTICATION is supposed to reach its pink bloom in New York. Perhaps it does, but it is confined almost solely to amusing essentials. The bachelor who is master of the frostiest cocktail is labeled the sophisticate. Likewise, the precisionist who insists upon a certain temperature for his bath. Or the fellow who would be desolated without brandy in his post-prandial coffee. What is so often rated sophistication is nothing more than affectation—a pose.

People go to the theater an hour late and rudely disturb the play. They puff cigarettes in elevators and hotel and theater foyers. Men pay fabulous sums for ringside tables. And these flourishes come under the head of worldly amusement. In reality they are glorified small town smart alecisms. The cracker barrel comic in front of the general store is blood brother to the caving master of ceremonies in the Broadway night club.

Most hinterland antagonism toward New York is based on the city-slicker complex. It does not seem to realize that in the majority of instances the city slicker is an ex-apple knocker in urban settings. The real New York is far removed from the hick hamlet.

On account of its mammoth size, the cumulative wickedness gives the city the super-saturated proportions of a modern Babylon. And somehow the metropolis has always been able to dramatize itself and take on a role of great glamor. But that is acting.

When one pierces the shiny armor, there is much of the stiff-necked New England village about the city. I know a man who resides in a Broadway hotel who will not turn on the radio on Sunday. And thousands of New York women look with disgust upon flappers who smoke.

EMERICK CLAIMANTS OF ASTOR
MILLIONS CLOSE CONVENTION

William H. Wehking of St. Louis Is Elected President of Their Association.

Concluding their two-day convention of inspirational meetings, singing hours and speeches about the Astor millions, several hundred purported heirs of John Nicholas Emerick, one time partner of the first John Jacob Astor, packed their satchels yesterday at the American Annex and returned to their homes in 16 states.

They elected William H. Wehking of St. Louis, president of their organization, and Oscar Germannhausen of New York, and Jack Emerick of Waukegan, Ill., vice president. Mrs. Edna Carman of Eau Claire, Wis., who found in an ancient sea-trunk the tattered documents upon which the several hundred "heirs" base their claims for several hundreds of millions now controlled by Astor trustees, was named secretary and Mrs. Hattie Hayton, treasurer.

Counsel for the Astor estate contends that, inasmuch as John Nicholas Emerick has been dead 112 years, the statute of limitations will void the case, if any, of the Emerick heirs, and also, that there is no proof of the alleged "trust agreement" between Emerick and Astor, in which the Emerick heirs have implicit faith.

J. D. BASCOM ESTATE
TO WIDOW AND SON

Heirs Share $935,000 Equally—$50,000 for Hospital and Washington U.

The bulk of the $1,000,000 estate of Joseph D. Bascom, chairman of the board of the Broderick & Bascom Rope Co., who died Sunday night, was bequeathed in equal shares to his widow, Mrs. Mary Frederick Bascom, 45 Westmoreland place, and his son, Charles E. Bascom, 52 Portland place. On Mrs. Bascom's death the son is to receive her portion.

Charles Bascom and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. were named executors, in the will, filed for probate yesterday, and trustees of the trust funds set up. Mrs. Bascom's share will be held in trust and she will receive the income in her lifetime. This arrangement applies to the testator's stock in the rope company, a separate bequest, as well as the general residue. Mr. Bascom was understood to have owned about half of the company stock.

The amount to be shared by Mrs. Bascom and Charles Bascom will approximate $935,000. One charitable bequest of $50,000 is made as a trust fund to be distributed between Washington University and Children's Hospital in accordance with the younger Bascom's judgment as to their needs.

To his brother-in-law, Edward P. Frederick, Mr. Bascom willed $5000 for long and faithful service to the rope company, in a codicil. Another codicil left a $10,000 trust fund, income of which is to go to Katie Henry during her lifetime for faithful household services. There are no other specific bequests.

The will stated that additional public or charitable gifts were not provided because Mr. Bascom had tried to make such contributions as he deemed desirable when he lived. A codicil made in 1924 revoked previous bequests of $25,000 to Children's Hospital, $20,000 to the Y. M. C. A., $20,000 to the Provident Association, $20,000 to Washington University and $20,000 to Second Baptist Church.

POLISH FLYERS' OWN STORY OF FAILURE OF TRANSATLANTIC VENTURE

curacy. We were flying just above a 500-meter thick blanket of fog. The sextant permitted Kubala to make several observations in the space of a minute without removing his eye from the instrument.

Particularly by night exact observations can be made, for then the polar star can be used as a base in computing longitude and latitude. From the point of 41.30 north 34 west we had south and later west winds aiding us.

Ran Into Heavy Fog Again.

When we reached 42 north 24.5 west at 2:40 our speed was 200 kilometers (125 miles). Then we nosed into an area of low clouds and thick fog. We were again thrown badly off our course for several hours.

Whenever we sighted ships we circled them to get our bearings, with which we checked our compass. At about 6:40 we were able to adjust our course by new observations. We were then at 45 north 18 west.

After we met the steamships Aztec and Amakura we felt the oil pressure was sufficient to justify our going on. The motor was running with smooth precision and the temperature of water was normal. This gave us hope that we might yet save our ship by landing it on the European shore.

We nursed our engine along with the greatest care, so that it might suffer as little as possible from the leak. We throttled it down to a minimum to keep it from overheating because of loss of oil.

Low Pressure Area Encountered.

Soon we found ourselves entering the low pressure area between the Azores and England. First there was a period of calm followed by the western wind we had hoped for. We were now flying at between 135 and 140 kilometers (84 to 87 miles) an hour in perfect weather and a sea as calm as plate glass.

We were nearing Spain, and our hopes arose. At 8:40 we were at 42 north and 18 west and had but 700 kilometers (435 miles) to go. Kubala was scanning the horizon as though he already expected to see land. Shadows and clouds were often mistaken by us for land, though we knew we were still far from land.

Then we saw morning mists and day was upon us again. Our excitement grew when our oil gauge registered a rapidly falling pressure with land but 100 kilometers (62.5 miles) away. Then we realized our motor might die at any moment, and began to make preparations.

Kubala prepared our rubber boat and started to get out of some of his clothes, advising me to do the same.

End Was Coming.

Then, at 11:30 we got an intense odor of burning oil fumes, and we knew that the end was near. By this time we were on a ship lane and soon we sighted two vessels. We dropped a note to one of them telling them we were about to land alongside.

The message was in a can, which was picked up by the vessel and a lifeboat was immediately lowered. There was just enough life left in our motor to head us up to the wind. We landed with the motor already dead.

I made the landing successfully. The plane's tail touched the water first. Our lower wing broke. Then it seemed only a moment before we were in the boat.

Our ship was floating easily on the smooth water. The Captain of the vessel agreed to pull it aboard, but the hoists were weak, and due to its immense weight the plane was badly damaged as it was pulled up. The hull was injured and the wings broken.

This, it will be realized, was a terrible blow to us. Our main consideration when we found we could not reach our objective was to save the ship for our Government.

Landing 37 Miles at Sea.

The point where we landed was 43.9 north 10.7 west. We were but 60 kilometers (37.5 miles) off Cape Finisterre. It was 11:40 a. m. (5:40 a. m., St. Louis time).

The next morning we were greeted with warmth at Oporto. The authorities personally welcomed us and we began receiving cables of joy that we had not lost our lives.

But there is still sorrow in our hearts. We are sad at the thought of failing to accomplish what we had planned for so long, and for which we had worked so hard.

We cannot thank everyone personally so we take this opportunity to send our deepest gratitude to the well wishers who sent us many Godspeed messages before our flight and congratulations upon our safe rescue.

We hope to repeat our attempt as soon as possible. We feel certain that our experience has been of value sufficient to insure us success when we go forth again.

Ice for every meal

Crystal cubes for table use... for tall, refreshing summer drinks... for chilled fruits and vegetables. With plenty of ice for every need, hot summer days seem less oppressive. So use ice freely.

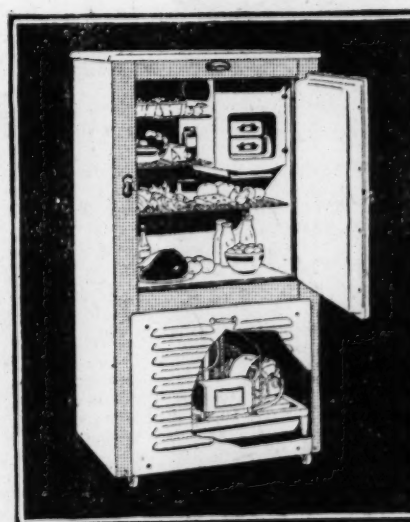

with Frigidaire you'll never need to use ice sparingly

SKILLED engineers built Frigidaire to freeze ice quickly and always. This removes all fear of running short of ice... no matter how long the hot spells last. Empty the freezing trays for every meal. You can always freeze a fresh supply of ice cubes for every meal, and the food compartment temperatures are never too warm for safety.

There's surplus power in Frigidaire to meet the most extreme emergencies

A smaller motor and cooling coil would lack power to freeze ice quickly. They would toil constantly just to keep the food compartment temperatures above the danger point. When hot spells came, where would be the surplus power to keep the food compartment cold, and to freeze the extra ice that's always needed when the mercury starts to climb?

But look at Frigidaire. Here is a sturdy, over-size motor and a cooling unit of super-strength. Power is transmitted in the most effective way by means of a V-type belt, the

The powerful mechanism of this new Tu-Tone Frigidaire is completely concealed... the beauty of the cabinet is apparent. Note also the shelves at convenient height.

With all this power, Frigidaire stays quiet... even after years of service. This is because it's built with watch-like precision and because it operates only at infrequent intervals. Frigidaire, under test, has seen the equivalent of 25 years of average household service.

This powerful yet silent mechanism is entirely enclosed. Nothing to mar the graceful symmetry of the cabinet. Nothing to gather dirt and dust. Use the top of the cabinet for extra shelf space. Put the mechanism in the basement if you care to, and use the lower part of the cabinet for storage. Both the oil and cooling fluid are sealed inside the unit. They never need attention or replacement.

With these important facts in mind, it's not surprising that today more Frigidaires are used than all other electric refrigerators combined.

Small down payment

Point by point compare Frigidaire value. Then compare Frigidaire's low prices. Place your order now and have Frigidaire in your home at once. Any model can be bought for a small down payment and the balance on easy terms.

INQUIRY INTO I. C. WRECK HINGES ON PIECE OF IRON PIPE

Investigation Begins at Carbondale, Ill., With Train Crews and Railway Officers Present.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Aug. 9.—An official investigation to determine the cause and responsibility in the wreck of two Illinois Central passenger trains near Mounds, in which eight persons were killed and more than 100 injured early Monday, got under way here yesterday at the office of C. W. Shaw, St. Louis division superintendent. The investigation is being conducted in the presence of G. E. Patterson, general manager, and W. Atwill, general superintendent of the Chicago and St. Louis division.

Two representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission from Washington are present at the investigation, as are representatives of the Railroad Brotherhoods, members of the train crews on the two trains, No. 3 and No. 16, involved in the wreck, and members of the crew of No. 203, St. Louis to Memphis flyer.

The inquiry will involve the taking of considerable lengthy testimony and many versions of the accident, which was caused by a large sewer pipe which had fallen from a freight car being hit by northbound train No. 16 and knocked against the southbound, running a kink in the rail. When No. 3 hit this faulty spot it crashed into the side of No. 16, already stopped by hitting the pipe.

The crew of No. 203 will be called in to explain why its train failed to stop when it discovered an obstruction on the track, which later proved to be the sewer pipe. Crew members of 203 told the trainmen on No. 16 of the obstruction. No. 16 then slowed down, but hit the pipe about a mile north of Mounds. No. 3 swept along and the wreck followed.

No. 16 was in charge of Conductor Ed Whalen of Carbondale and Engineer H. E. Abel of East St. Louis. No. 3 was in charge of Conductor E. A. Reeder and Engineer H. E. Banks of Centralia. No. 203 was in charge of Conductor C. W. Walker and Engineer P. G. Joset of East St. Louis.

Men who inspected the freight car in the Mounds yards or at the point at which the pipe was loaded will be before the investigation group. The pipe was loaded at Birmingham, Ala., and was last inspected before the wreck at Mounds, where the car was approved by inspectors.

will have an office force working. It is not unlikely that the first complication within the party will come over the selection of a chairman of the State Committee to succeed Samuel W. Taylor. The word has gone out that Wilson, the nominee for Governor, will be authorized to name the chairman. There may be some question about this, as Hay undoubtedly will insist upon having a hand. Hay, it may be stated with a reasonable degree of certainty, will oppose vigorously the selection of a chairman who is known as a wet. Whether he will seek to bring about the selection of a known dry is uncertain.

The members of the new State Committee will be chosen at meetings of the congressional committee Aug. 21, and will meet formally to elect a chairman Sept. 11, the date of the State platform convention. It is probable Wilson, Hay and Hawes will confer before that time in an effort to avoid any conflict over the choice.

Confidence also will be held on the subject of the State platform declaration on prohibition. It is doubtful that the practical politicians who are wet will advocate a wet plank. Their position is likely to be that Smith's candidacy is sufficient guaranty of the party's position. On the other hand, Hay hardly will seek to include a dry plank, which would put the State party on record as in conflict with Smith's views. The probability is that there will not be much difficulty in agreeing on an innocuous law enforcement plank, which will not reach the real question.

WHEN THE FAMILY GOES TRAVELING IN A LUXURIOUS PALACE ON WHEELS

There Are in This Country About Eighty Such Families, and When They Go Anywhere They Have All the Comforts of Home.

By Dolena Rutherford.

Living room on a private palace car

NEWS from the Orient the other day described the picturesque journeyings of the King of Afghanistan in a showy white and gold train that meandered across India and started even the self-contained Hindus into admiration. Descriptions of teakwood coaches, tiled bathrooms and silver fittings were broadcast to acquaint the public with the magnificence of the brunei Majesty's palace on wheels.

There are in this country about 80 families whose private railway cars could compete in expense with the most luxurious of the traveling palaces of distant rulers. These privately-owned cars are being trailed around by railway engines this year than ever before—a fresh and richly enameled flowing from new fortunes that have been made in Wall Street and elsewhere. Here, however, the cars are not painted white and gold, and instead of having the most scrupulous secrecy with regard to their shuntings is exercised in railway offices. For American banks and queens of abundant bank accounts prefer not to be the cynosure of miscellaneous eyes when they go traveling from town to town.

There are quite a number of men and women in New York, California and points between who would never think of traveling in their own cars, which afford the privacy of home.

A generation ago the first private cars were built to be used as traveling offices by railroad presidents whose secretaries could go on working while the landscape rolled by—and to serve as samples that soon caught the fancy of men and women who could afford to own their own.

For years the late Henry G. Frick's specially constructed steel car, Westmoreland, with its red and blue and gold rooms—for the financier, his wife and daughter—was considered the last word in luxury. But when cars began to be built for women who could afford to order solid gold fixtures for lighting brackets and bathroom faucets, the somewhat more conservative days became comparatively modest.

THIS summer connoisseurs of cars have been talking about the Phantom, recently built for Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors Corporation. It is painted dull green and has its name emblazoned in gold letters on the sides. A lighter shade of green is the prevailing color of the interior, which consists of four private rooms with baths and a dining room.

Another rather new car which combines good taste and luxuriousness is W. F. Kenny's St. Nicholas, whose living room, dining room, bedrooms and observation platform afford a good deal more than the average comforts of home. The practical purposes for which such a car may be utilized beyond either business or pleasure was shown a few weeks ago when, after a serious illness in a New York hospital, Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the Governor of New York, made the return trip to Albany with a nurse in Mr. Kenny's St. Nicholas.

The most imposing and most expensive private cars—they are inseparable twins and precisely alike in outside appearance—have ever went speeding along the rails in this country are the one-year-old coaches owned by the Governor-General of Canada, who, with his wife, the Viscountess Willingdon, and their suite traveled in these grand conveyances when the Governor-General paid his first visit to the new Canadian legation in Washington last winter.

These cars, colloquially known as the royal G. G.'s, cost something over $300,000, which is a few hundred thousands more than most Americans paid for theirs. Both coaches are painted a fine deep violet color—a shade these governing representatives of royalty affect in many of their belongings—and the Canadian crest emblazoned in heraldic fashion on the sides of the cars. Prominent men and women who are interested in such things went to the railroad yards in Washington to inspect these splendid rolling palaces, and the same thing happened during the few days they rested on a siding in New York.

COMFORT is the keynote of the G. G.'s and, as might be expected, the specially built furniture, instead of being dressed in rich brocades, is covered with colorful chintz. In Car No. 1 are adjoining bedrooms for the Governor-General and the Viscountess Willingdon, with a little open bathroom in the mahogany partition through which they can talk. There is a sitting room with chintz-covered chairs and sofas, a writing desk, book shelves and holders for potted and cut flowers. There are rooms for the private secretary, aides-de-camp and lady-in-waiting. Car No. 2 has a reception room and a dining room which seats 12, and beyond these are the kitchen and quarters for servants. Unobtrusive knickknacks such as specially designed violet enameled match-boxes, ash trays and picture frames help to complete the harmonious color scheme. Even the most sophisticated traveler is sure to take a second look at these gleaming violet-colored cars when they come within his range of vision.

Some such event as the Kentucky Derby may bring a number of the finest cars in the country to adjacent sidings. For years C. G. K. Billings went to the races in his own car, but recently he has been renting one of the many luxurious cars which the Pullman Company keeps for that purpose. The Wideners of Philadelphia and W. J. Salmon of New York are among those whose handsome cars during racing weeks become neighbors to the Whitney's Wanderer and Roamer and J. C. Brady's Adventurer, on the sidings near Churchill Downs or Saratoga Springs.

NAMES by which most of these cars are known are considerably less bewildering than those labels any ordinary travelers may read on Pullman vestibules during one of those marathons to or from the dining car. There is nothing cryptic, for example, about John Ringling's Jomar if one happens to know that the Ringling family contained a John and a Mary, or about Charles M. Schwab's Bethlehem. Harry Sinclair's Sincro or Thomas F. Ryan's Oak Ridge, the name of the old Ryan estate in Virginia. An adept at anagrams might find a few family names in Mrs. J. P. Donahue's Japauldon.

Mrs. Donahue's car, which represents a small fraction of the Woolworth millions, is considered one of the finest in the land. The interior color scheme of brown and gold has for its predominant note the soft brown of handsome panels of quarter-sawn oak, some of which are one-piece beams that extend the entire length of the car. The mellow richness of these wooden walls makes a fine background for brown rugs and draperies and for the shining gold of fixtures, clocks, mirror and picture frames. The car has two bedrooms, a sitting room, dining room and kitchen.

Like the Governor-General of Canada, Mrs. E. F. Hutton of New York rarely moves far from home without her two private cars. One of them is a miniature substitute for a Park Avenue apartment. The other has quarters for servants and luggage. Many people who manage to get along with one car frequently charter an extra Pullman for their own and their guests' servants and luggage, and in that way save a considerable sum in midseason storage.

THE approximate expense of this mode of travel can be estimated without much figuring. The original outlay for a good-looking car need not be more than $100,000. The cost of moving it from point to point on the map amounts to the price of 25 railroad tickets plus a surcharge of 10 per cent. If a person does not happen to own a car he may rent one for $30 a day and then buy 25 fares to somewhere. It is customary to invite a few guests for company, usually four or six. A dozen would be a crowd on any of these cars. Often a man or a woman travels alone with a valet or maid in lonely grandeur.

Most of the men who made the fortunes that paid for the present crop of private cars in this country were content with a less sumptuous and more sociable mode of travel than are the owners of these detached equipages that go rumbling along coupled to the tail of trains.

Already that rumble is much too slow and earthbound for certain members of a generation whose tastes run to wings rather than wheels. Some day soon an editor will be asking a reporter to go out and get descriptions of a few of the most elegantly equipped and gorgeously painted airplanes—with trailers for luggage and servants—in which the new-fashioned inheritors of fortunes may find ideal and airy escape from the daytime sociability and the night-time snores of poky people who will continue to ride on railways trains.

A New Problem In Stain Removal

By Hannah Wing.

STAINS on linen like the old moral about stains on character, follow habits. Even a good and wise habit, such as the present one of taking cod liver oil, may result in a stain that is difficult to remove. Those who have young children on whose clothes the oil is often spilled in the process of administering the dose have found that this oil is not as easily washed out as some other oils. The stain often escapes notice when the clothes are put in the wash since cod liver oil stains are light in color and almost invisible while fresh. However, heat turns them brown and makes them more difficult to remove.

Unlaundered cod liver oil stains can be removed from all materials, white and colored, by rubbing with a mixture made as follows: Dissolve one tablespoon of soap flakes in three tablespoons of boiling water. Allow to cool until it just begins to thicken. Then stir two tablespoons of amyl acetate (banana oil) into the mixture. Cod liver oil clings tenaciously to fabrics and thorough rubbing is necessary to completely remove the stain. After the cod liver oil has been rubbed away, the garments should be laundered in warm soda.

Cod liver oil stains that have been set by laundering are more difficult to remove. Such stains can be most easily removed from white cotton and linen garments by boiling in soap suds to which hydrogen peroxide, as obtained for medicinal purposes, has been added in the proportion of one tablespoon of hydrogen peroxide to one gallon of suds.

Such stains on white silk and wool can be removed by moistening the garment with soda made with a pure, mild soap and stretching over a bowl of steaming hot water, close to but not touching the surface of the water. Hydrogen peroxide should be applied with a glass rod, medicine dropper or orange stick. These applications should be repeated from time to time until the stain is gone. A teaspoon of ammonia added to the bowl of hot water hastens the removal of the stain.

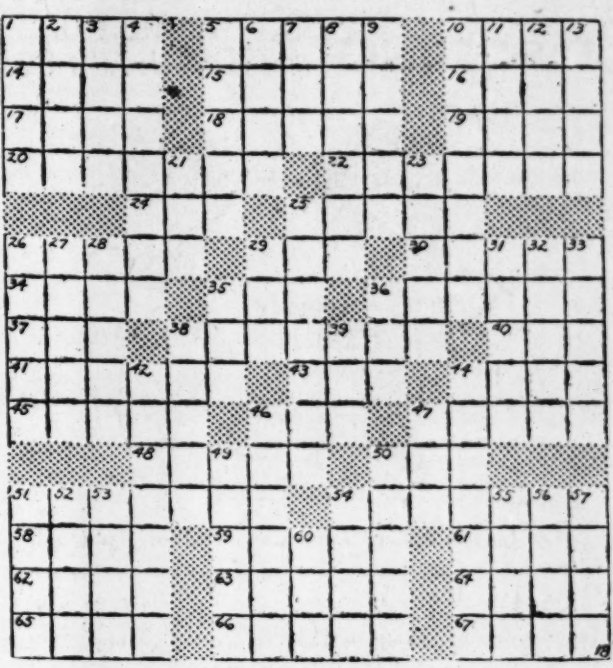

Hydrogen peroxide is a very mild bleach, but nevertheless, can not be used indiscriminately on colored materials, or a faded spot may result. Before using it on a colored garment it is best to try its effect on a sample of the material or on a hidden part of the garment. The nature of the dye may be such that the stain can be removed without injury to the color. If a faded spot results, it may be less objectionable than the original stain as it is often possible to restore the color by careful tinting.

When using hydrogen peroxide on colored materials it is desirable to work as rapidly as possible. Holding the stain in the steam close to the spout of a boiling kettle after each application of the hydrogen peroxide gives quick results and is less likely to injure the color than longer applications at a lower temperature.

Hydrogen peroxide can be used on silk and wool as well as on cotton and linen.

White clothes should always be dried in strong sunlight.

Fall Negligees Elaborate

TAKING a hint from some of the new coat models where self-cordings play a part, negligees promise to show much quilting elaboration, especially when of satin, plain or patterned. Some very lovely robes for lounging have appliques of velvet on satin.

The luxurious type of negligee of velvet and brocade, one or both combined, is frequently trimmed with much marabou, which has become very much of a negligee trimming medium. In one word, the fall negligees can be described as elaborate.

Keeping House

METAL FURNITURE OUTDOORS

METAL furniture for the garden is still very much in vogue. It is being made in the very severe and simple style and also in the more elaborate designs. Its rather harsh quality is now being relieved by a more decorative treatment and by the use of cushions.

One very attractive style is made of steel—an exact reproduction of the chairs used at Decville. The seat and back are round, with graduating spokes radiating from the center to the rim. A slightly spherical shape to the seat and back gives a certain amount of spring. This is weather proof. A wrought iron table with a glass top is another new note.

An iron plant stand containing holders for four pots at varying heights is a graceful way to handle trailing vines or flowers which droop. This is very suitable for the porch.

New York's Most Beautiful Hands

They are hands of Miss Annette Grandin, the most photographed hands in the world. They are so white and smooth that they can stand "close-up" reproduction. And here's the secret, according to Miss Grandin:

"I use no fancy or expensive lotions, but make a skin bleach of my own. I set three ounces of Orchard White cream or detergent and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quart of my hand-bleach. I rub a little into my hands—the my neck and face—every night, and don't worry about freckles, tan or redness. This simple mixture not only keeps the skin clear and white, but luxuriously soft and smooth to the touch."

and Mrs. A. Neumann of St. Louis says: "I hardly ever boil now"

"I depend on Rinso to do my hard work on the morning while I'm doing my other work, and all the heavy dirt soaks out. It's foolish to scrub clothes when you can soak them whiter. 'Why, I hardly ever boil the clothes, yet they're always so white and fresh-looking. Even in the hard water here Rinso makes wonderful suds, and is such a safe dirt loosener you can use it for all cleaning.'"

FOR

By Anne Jordan

HERE is a letter that we received this morning. It may not sound serious to you, but it smites me beneath the fifth rib. Says this child in her letter: "I have half about my mouth. I've got everything to get rid of this blemish. I am ashamed to go out any more. And I've also wrinkles around my eyes from crying over my misfortune so that I look 30, and am not yet 20."

Oh, why are you ever young, so many of you, over trifles like that? It's only when we're young that we are ashamed of what we look like. When we get older, we learn to make the most of what we've got. An older person would try to keep the wrinkles away from her eyes and keep her eyes bright and lovely so that people would see them, and not notice any detraction about her face. But YOUTH is so naive, morbidly sensitive, and prone to seek its own defects rather than its good points.

I once knew a girl who suffered torture within herself because she didn't like the shape of her nose. She was a beauty, and she spent all her idle time gazing at her reflection in the mirror, holding her nose in a cute pug shape with her finger, and dreaming of how attractive she would be if only she had a nose like that. She hated to go to church, because she imagined that every person in the whole church was gazing at her profile—seeing the nose that she didn't approve of. And then, when she went on church society life, one day she chanced to have someone say to her, "You've got a nose like Gloria Swanson, and Gloria wouldn't be a bit attractive without that funny little nose" and just that was all it needed to cure this girl of sensitiveness about her proboscis.

So now maybe if I tell this child what I once heard an artist say about a woman, it will ease her heartache. He said that a beautiful woman, like a peach, looked best with a little down on her skin! So you see, there are so many opinions that sometimes we will find one that favors what we think is a handicap.

But about getting rid of this "blemish." It can be taken off with an electric needle, but this is painful and often unsuccessful. To actually kill the hair, the needle must find its way down into the inner root of each hair. If you must resort to such things, depilatories are best.

If I were you, I would bleach the hair with equal parts of ammonia and peroxide. It applied often enough and long enough, in time this will kill the constitution growth. Not show ashamed if she is being doted on in the mirror, and bright attention a and soon as your face

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

W. N. T.—Tin foil is bought by dealers. Some are listed in classified section of telephone directory.

REGULAR—Gene Turney, born in Greenwich Village, New York May 15, 1898, was christened Joseph Turney.

W.—Write Jefferson City, Mo., Department of Agriculture, Department of Agriculture, D. C. A. Missouri bulletin may be more useful than the latter if you are raising crops in Missouri, otherwise write the Department of Agriculture of the State in which you expect to raise them.

I. G.—The telephone number mentioned in connection with getting of caterpillars is that of the City Hall, Main 5560. Ask for the Forestry Department. But for the city department will spray trees at the curb only, not trees on private property. You can get the arsenate of lead and the spraying apparatus from seed dealers, and one or two firms advertise to do the spraying with everything furnished, charging regular rates. Send your address if you want the times.

NELLIE—There is considerable variety to the matter of which minutes are made at present and a method of cleaning one may not be good for another. One long necessary to all is, do not use gasoline. It will injure rubber. Lay the coat out flat and wash lightly with soap and water. Rinse with clear water, but do not wring. Put on a baking sheet and dry it out doors. This will thoroughly cleanse a moderately soiled coat. For badly soiled rubber coats cut a raw potato in half and rub the soiled spots with it lightly with a soft cloth or sponge dipped in vinegar.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

IMPROVE YOUR LOOKS

If I were you, I would bleach the hair with equal parts of ammonia and peroxide. If applied often enough and long enough, in time this will kill the constitution of the hair roots, and prevent new growth. And bleached hair will not show badly so you need not be ashamed to go out while the hair is being destroyed.

In the meanwhile, when you look in a mirror, look at your good points, and keep your eyes shining and bright, so they will attract attention away from your defects, and soon you, too, will forget that your face doesn't suit you.

BEN HYDE TRIED TO BAR CALIFORNIA INVESTIGATION OF INTERNATIONAL CO.

Resisted Commissioner Detrick's Demand as 'Scheme to Dynamite' Insurance Company.

HE GOT BIG FEE FROM IT, EXAMINERS SAID

Inquiry That Disclosed $3,500,000 Shortage Forced Over Missouri Official's Earlier Protest.

Inquiry by the Post-Dispatch today disclosed that the examination of the affairs of the International Life Insurance Co., which revealed that $3,500,000 of its securities are missing, creating a condition that Insurance Commissioners pronounced "the worst ever encountered by examiners," was initiated by Charles R. Detrick, Insurance Commissioner of California, over protests of the Missouri Insurance Department, under supervision of Ben C. Hyde, brother of former Gov. Hyde.

The California Commissioner's persistent demands for the inquiry brought a telegram from the Missouri Insurance Department charging him with "unreasonable accusations, insinuations and conduct" and adding that the Missouri Department "cannot be a party to the scheme to dynamite and exploit these (Missouri) companies."

These statements were made last March 12 in a telegram from Jefferson City signed "Ben C. Hyde, Superintendent, by Robert E. Daly, actuary," to Detrick at San Francisco. The text of this telegram is published elsewhere in this edition.

Daly was engaged with Insurance Commissioners of other states today in the investigation into the International Life, and his version of the dispute with the California Insurance Department could not be obtained.

Inquiry Began in 1925.

The California Insurance Department had begun its investigation of the condition of the International Life as far back as 1925, when Prof. A. H. Mowbray of the University of California, widely known authority on life insurance business, made a study and report of the company's annual statement for the California department. At that time he recommended that Commissioner Detrick make a thorough examination for the protection of California policyholders, stating in his report there was "grave probability of insolvency."

Nov. 14, 1926, in the Billmore Hotel at Los Angeles, Cal., during a meeting of the committee on examinations at a convention of commissioners, Commissioner Detrick, in the presence of 29 commissioners and department people, confronted Commissioner Hyde of Missouri with the Mowbray report, and Hyde said he was working to improve conditions and stabilize, if given time, to straighten out objectionable features.

That was the last California heard of the situation until Sept. 24, 1927, when Daly, actuary for Insurance Commissioners at Cincinnati and announced that an examination of the International Life had been completed. A copy of this report was received in California, showing it had been completed April 18 by examiners from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Mississippi and Texas. California had not been invited to participate in this examination.

Complaint of Hyde's Attitude.

As early as July, 1925, examiners representing the insurance departments of other states charged that the Missouri Insurance Department, under Ben Hyde, "has made every possible effort to delay the examination (then in progress at the International Life) and protect the company in all their various deals and manipulations."

This charge was made in letters written to Insurance Commissioner Henry of Mississippi and Insurance Commissioner Baker of Kansas by three examiners, W. W. Herndon, L. C. Baker and S. P. Henry.

"Because of the desire of the Missouri department to pass the International Life by with little or no mention we do not believe you could be fully advised from that report as to the company's condition and affairs and are
